New Devil's Dictionary H/C

A New Version of the Cynical Classic

Author: Koenig, Rhoda

GLOBE PEQUOT

Ambrose Bierce's classic The Devil's Dictionary first appeared in its entirety in 1911. Its caustic wit and arch tone have ensured steady popularity and sales to this day. To mark its centennial, Rhoda Koenig gives us a new version of Bierce's mordant vision. Its myriad definitions, like the original's, individually expose hypocrisy, pretension, and vanity and collectively paint a mocking portrait of society at its worst. More than just a denunciation of jargon or political correctness, it lambasts old and young, rich and poor, male and female, left and right, and takes them all down a peg-or three. It deals with classic subjects but also defines new ideas and explicates new usages from "academia" to "teamwork" to "women's magazine."

- Rhoda Koenig was the book reviewer for New York magazine and, since moving to England in 1986, a theatre critic for UK publications, Punch and *The Independent

'The New Devil's Dictionary, illustrated by Peter Breese, a breezy update on Ambrose Bierce's tart classic, with the last word on everything from Absolution: "Start of a new round of sinning" to Youth: "Period of happiness and promise, infinitely extendable by surgery, celebrity, immaturity, or personal comparison.'

Argyle Armada H/C

Behind the Scenes of the Pro Cycling Life

Author: Johnson, Mark

When Lance Armstrong's teammate Jonathan Vaughters retired from pro cycling in 2002, he wasn't done with the sport. Vaughters assembled a new team with the audacious goal of taking it from the lowly U.S. racing circuit to the Tour de France. By 2008, the team had succeeded placing a rider fourth in the Tour. Fast forward to today, and Team Garmin-Cervelo is a legitimate contender to win the 2011 Tour de France outright. The Argyle Armada, as the American team is known for the pattern on its distinctive jerseys, is now one of the most respected teams in cycling--in no small part because it was the first to openly challenge cycling to clean up its doping act. "Argyle Armada" will follow Team Garmin-Cervelo throughout the 2011 cycling season, from winter training camps in the snowy mountains surrounding Girona, Spain, to the cruelly wet cobbled springtime classics of Belgium, to the sun-drenched glories of the French Alps at the Tour de France.

Arthur Phillip

Australia's First Governor

Author: Parker, Derek

WOODSLANE PRESS

Over the two centuries since his appointment, commentators have been as surprised at the choice of Arthur Phillip as some were at the time (the First Lord of the Admiralty, to mention only the most distinguished critic). But was it really so surprising? What did the Home Office and the Admiralty expect of a man who was to navigate a fleet to the antipodes, and when he got it there unload its cargo of unregenerate criminals and forge them into some sort of a working colony? Apart from the necessary seamanship, they needed a man with a cool head who understood men and how to control them, a man capable of governing himself, possessed of calm and understanding and a thorough grasp of reality, with complete loyalty to the Crown and Government and a determination to plan and carry through an enterprise unlike any other within living memory. Fortunately, there were one or two men at the Admiralty who understood that Arthur Phillip possessed all these credentials.

Battle Story Tobruk 1941 H/C

Author: Battistelli, Pier Paolo

The siege of Tobruk lasted 240 days during which the 'gallant garrison' of Allied soldiers, primarily the Australian 9th Division, held out against constant attacks from Rommel's Afrika Korps. The battle became one of the longest sieges in British military history and a potent symbol of British resistance. However, Tobruk's importance was far beyond that of a mere symbol in the war, it was a key fortress and port that enabled the resupply of troops throughout the Western Desert theatre. Indeed, Goebbels was so infuriated by the British stand that he referred to the garrison troops as 'rats' and the 'Rats of Tobruk' became known for their tenacity. When the fortress finally fell to German tanks on 21 June 1942 with the loss of 25,000 men Churchill said it was 'one of the heaviest blows I can recall during the war'. Through quotes and maps the text explores the unfolding action of the battle and puts the reader on the frontline. If you truly want to understand what happened and why - read Battle Story.

Bosnia's Bloody Battlefield

Bihac

Author: O'Shea, Brenda

Based on the author's experiences as an EC Monitoring Mission Observer, this narrative account of the civil war in the former Yugoslavia combines material from a range of eyewitness and documentary sources. Brendan O'Shea had access to both EU and UN official documents for his research and used these to unravel the complex story of the war. The author tells the tragic story of what happened at the 'safe haven' at Bihac in north-western Bosnia between 1992 and 1996 to show the Bosnian civil war in microcosm. At Bihac, Muslim fought all variety of Serb, Muslim fought Muslim and the Croats interfered continually - thereby ensuring a rapid descent into bitter civil war and a vindictive power struggle. 'Ethnic cleansing' was rife and horrific war crimes which shocked the world were committed by all sides.

Emperor's Irish Slaves H/C

Irish Prisoners of the Japanese During the Second World War

Author: Widders, Robert

Sister Mary Cooper died in a Japanese prison camp on 26 June 1943, from the combined effects of starvation, brutality and tropical diseases. Timothy Kenneally and Patrick Fitzgerald tried to escape from a slave labour camp on the Burma Railway. They were caught, tortured - crucified - and then executed on 27 March 1943. And Patrick Carberry spent the summer of 1943 cremating the emaciated corpses of his comrades, who had died from cholera. These people had two things in common: they were Irish citizens serving with the British armed forces; and they were amongst more than 650 Irishmen and women who became prisoners of the Imperial Japanese Army in 1942. Nearly a quarter of them were murdered whilst in Japanese captivity - this is their story. Combining historical narrative with first-hand accounts of the conditions in Japanese POW camps, Robert Widders brings to light their suffering and the strength that saw them home again.

Steel and Tartan H/C

The 4th Cameron Highlanders in the Great War

Author: Watt, Patrick

During the First World War, The Cameron Highlanders was expanded to thirteen battalions, of which nine were in battle. The 1st, 2nd, 4th (TF), 5th, 6th, 7th, 9th and 11th Battalions all fought on the Western Front. Ten representative battle honours were chosen to be displayed on the King's colour, amongst them Neuve Chapelle and Loos, where the 4th Battalion suffered terrible losses. Note the (TF) after their designation - these were territorials, not professional soldiers, yet they did nothing to undermine the honour and the fearsome reputation of the Highland divisions. Using unpublished diaries, letters and memoirs together with original photographs and newspaper accounts, this book focuses on the stories of the men of the 4th Camerons who went so eagerly to war in August 1914. It charts the progress of these 'Saturday night soldiers' through their training in Bedford with the Highland Division to their participation through all the major battles of 1915 and their disbandment in February 1916. What makes this book unique is the close focus on a single battalion, something that makes the narrative so much more immediate than sweeping strategic descriptions at army or even divisional level.

UXB Malta

Royal Engineers Bomb Disposal 1940-44

Author: Hudson, S. A. M.

As the Regia Aeronautica and the Luftwaffe unleashed their full might against the island of Malta, the civilian population was in the eye of the storm. Faced with the terror of the unexploded bomb, the Maltese people looked for help to the Royal Engineers Bomb Disposal Section, who dealt with all unexploded bombs, outside of airfields and the RN dockyard, across an area the size of Greater London. Based on official wartime records and personal memoirs, the extraordinary tale unfolds of the challenges they faced - as the enemy employed every possible weapon in a relentless bombing campaign: 3,000 raids in two years. Through violent winter storms and blazing summer heat, despite interrupted sleep and meagre rations, they battled to reach, excavate and render safe thousands of unexploded bombs. Day after day, and in 1942 hour after hour - through constant air raids - they approached live bomb after live bomb, mindful that it could explode at any moment. In the words of one of their number they were 'just doing a job'.

Blitz Families

The Children Who Stayed Behind

Author: Starns, Penny

The mass evacuation of children and new and expectant mothers during the Second World War is well documented. But over fifty per cent of children were not evacuated during the War, and it is these young people who offer an unrivalled view of what life was like during the bombing raids in Britain's cities. In Blitz Families Penny Starns takes a new look at the children whose parents refused to bow to official pressure and kept their beloved children with them throughout the War. As she documents family after family which made this difficult decision, she uncovers tales of the deprivation, criminality and disease of life in the city and, conversely, the surprising relative emotional and physical wellbeing of those who lived through the Blitz compared to their evacuee counterparts. Because of their unique position at the heart of the action, these forgotten children offer us a priceless insight into the true grit and reality of the Blitz.

Four Thousand Lives Lost

The Inquiries of Lord Mersey into the Sinkings of the Titanic, the Empre

Author: Walker, Alastair

Over a period of four years, four ships were lost under different circumstances and 4,000 lives with them - but one thing links them all: it was John Charles Bigham, Lord Mersey, who was appointed to head the inquiries into each disaster. Mersey is often referred to in contemptuous terms in the many Titanic and Lusitania forums, as a 'company man', or a government stooge. But is this the whole truth? In themselves these stories are as dramatic as they come; everyone knows about the Titanic and the Lusitania, but the loss of 104 lives aboard the Falaba when torpedoed by U28 in March 1915, is not so famous - and it really was the preamble to American entry into the war. Did Mersey produce a whitewash for the government in the Lusitania investigation, talking of two or three submarines lying in wait for the Cunarder, telling the nation what it wanted to hear in contradiction of the evidence? Was he totally biased against Captain Walter Lord of the Californian, the ship that failed to react to the Titanic's distress rockets?

School Songs and Gym Slips

Author: Yurdan, Marilyn

For anyone educated at a grammar school during their heyday in the 1950s and '60s, those days will always hold a very special place in their memory. They were more than just the years of being taught taught needlecraft or woodwork, acting in the school play and singing the school song. They were the formative years of a generation, when girls and boys came from all walks of life and were given a uniform, a code of behaviour and, most importantly, pride in the institution to which they belonged. And this generation of 'Baby Boomers' holds a unique place in British history: growing up during the years when the country was emerging from the shadow cast by the Second World War, they were the first youngsters to benefit from the 'mod cons' and innovations which were gradually introduced during the 1950s and '60s. With fascinating memories and details that will resonate with thousands of grammar school pupils across the country, School Songs and Gymslips is a heart-warming collection of the experiences of the author and her contemporaries during a golden era.

Assassination of the Prime Minister

John Bellingham and the Murder of Spencer Perceval

Author: Hanrahan, David C.

The name Spencer Perceval is not as well known as Abraham Lincoln or John F. Kennedy, but he is the only British prime minister to have been assassinated in the almost 300 years that the office has existed. When Perceval arrived at the House of Commons on 11 May 1812, John Bellingham, a successful entrepreneur, shot him in the chest at point-blank range. Within a few minutes he was dead. Bellingham was immediately arrested and put on trial two days later: refusing to plead insanity, he was convicted and hanged before the week was out. In a story of suspense, revenge and personal tragedy, David C. Hanrahan tells the interwoven stories of Perceval and Bellingham, detailing not just the events of May 1812, but also the two men's histories, and what led one to take the other's life.

Story of Soho H/C

The Windmill Years, 1932-1964

Author: Hutton, Mike

Soho has always been a source of fascination. A district quite unlike any other in London, where glamour meets squalor and then often merges. It is different, never mirroring the changes of its more fashionable neighbours. It seduces and destroys in equal measures. The Windmill Theatre opened in 1932 and, after entertaining audiences through thirty-two years of dramatic change in Soho, finally closed its doors in 1964. In this book, the Windmill forms the backdrop against which Mike Hutton explores all the diversity taking place in the surrounding streets of this unique district during a period of social and moral change.

Jane Seymour H/C

Author: Hart, Kelly

Jane Seymour, Henry VIII's third wife, died in childbirth giving the king what he craved most - a son and heir. This biography shows the real Jane Seymour; she may have been submissive and obedient in front of Henry, but her true personality was far more cutthroat. Despite the huge interest in the wives of Henry VIII - most of his wives are the subject of at least two books - Jane has none. Jane Seymour is often portrayed as meek and mild and as the most successful, but one of the least significant, of Henry VIII's wives. The real Jane was a very different character, demure and submissive yet with a ruthless streak - as Anne Boleyn was being tried for treason, Jane was choosing her wedding dress. From the lowliest origins of any of Henry's wives, her rise shows an ambition every bit as great as Anne's.

With a Bended Bow H/C

Archery in Medieval and Renaissance Europe

Author: Roth, Erik

Through centuries of war in Europe, the English mediaeval archer was the most powerful force on the battlefield. In With Bended Bow Erik Roth presents a comprehensive examination of the archer and his weapon in a time when archery was both economically and militarily vital to the security of England, based on the study of mediaeval writings and period artefacts. As an accomplished artist, his illustrations are an invaluable aid to understanding the manufacture and use of the bow. The book examines the types of weapons and kit produced by guildsmen, the materials used and the work of different specialists including bowyers, fletchers and stringers. It also details the life of the archer himself, how he cared for his equipment, learned to shoot and fought for his country on the battlefields of Scotland and France. With Bended Bow gives an exceptional insight into the tools, training and fighting techniques of the soldier who defined mediaeval warfare.

Bonnie Prince Charlie

Author: Pininski, Peter

King James II's eldest legitimate grandson, Prince Charles Edward Stuart, known everywhere as 'Bonnie Prince Charlie', achieved international fame at the age of twenty-five as the man who by his charisma, daring and energy led the Rising of 1745 against George II which all but succeeded in restoring his exiled royal family - the Stuarts - to their thrones of Scotland, England and Ireland. The romance of this dramatic military episode and the legend of the prince's extraordinary months on the run in the Western Highlands after his defeat at Culloden in 1746, eclipse the deeply human story of a brilliant but flawed man. Biographies of Bonnie Prince Charlie often focus on the 1745 Rising. But this new biography charts his early life and also vividly relates the story of the prince's only child and heir and three hidden grandchildren whose previously untold lives were described by the Daily Mail as 'one of the best kept secrets in Scottish history'.

Miles M.52 H/C

Gateway to Supersonic Flight

Author: Brown, Eric

In December 1943, a top secret contract (E.24/43) was awarded to Miles Aircraft. The contract was to build the world's first supersonic jet capable of 1000mph. The only reliable source of data on supersonic objects came from the Armament Research Dept and their wind tunnel tests on ammunition. From this, Miles developed an exceptionally thin-winged bullet shaped aircraft. The research was inexplicably passed to the Americans in 1944. By December 1945, one prototype was virtually complete. The second, destined for an attempt at the sound barrier was 80 per cent complete. In February 1946, Capt Eric Brown was confirmed as the test pilot and October 1946 was set for the supersonic trials. However, on 12 February 1946, Miles were ordered to stop production. No plausible explanation was given for the cancellation when Britain was within six months of breaking the sound barrier. Eric Brown and others directly involved including Dennis Bancroft, the Chief Aerodynamicist on the M.52, have now come together to try and finally solve the mystery behind the cancellation.

Classic Diesels H/C

Author: Siviter, Roger

Roger Siviter's new book provides a colourful and impressive overview of classic diesel engines from his own impressive photographic collection. Over the past thirty years or so, many changes have taken place on Britain's railway system - none more so than in the 1980s and '90s, with the withdrawal of many classes of diesel locomotives, thus cutting down greatly on the number of locomotive-hauled passenger trains. However, although classes such as Deltics, Class 40s, 45s and 50s have long been withdrawn, many examples of these classes have been preserved, and over the last few years have been seen on the main lines in charge of special enthusiasts' trains. Coupled with the withdrawals of many classes of freight locomotive and the disappearance of much infrastructure, the changes become very noticeable.

Fitness for Geeks

Real Science, Great Nutrition, and Good Health

9 781449 399894

Author: Perry, Bruce W.

This educational and highly useful book shows the hacker and maker communities how to bring science into their health and exercise routine. There's more to being a geek than most people think when they hear the word, just as there's much more to fitness than the infomercials tell you at 2 a.m. According to Jeff Potter, author of O'Reilly's bestselling Cooking for Geeks, "a geek is anybody who's curious about the details about how things work," which "might be a car geek or somebody who's into sports" as much as your classic "technology geek." Like Potter did for cooking, in Fitness for Geeks, Bruce Perry revolutionizes the way any curious person views their fitness. This book will appeal to a broad audience of scientists, programmers, and anyone with an inquisitive mind who wants to experiment with health the way they tinker with technology. By applying the same technical approach they use to debug software or hack hardware, they will learn both what do do and why it works. Whether they have an established exercise routing and what to dig deeper to realize the physiology behind it, or if they're just looking for a way to get away from the computer to exercise in a way that speaks to them, this book helps readers discover a new method to building and maintaining fitness and a healthy lifestyle.

User's Manual for People with Keratoconus

From glasses to corneal grafts and everything in between

9 781921 804694

Author: Lougnan, Michael Dr. et al

From a team of Australia's top eye specialists, this essential guide is about Keratoconus, the eye complaint that afflicts thousands of people to near blindness. It explores how, with the latest developments, the condition can be treated with amazing results of vision recovery and how, with early intervention, much of the vision loss can be avoided. We don't expect our vision to start deteriorating when we are in our teens, but unfortunately this is precisely what can happen with keratoconus. Often the initial reduction in vision goes unnoticed, only when you finally get the diagnosis of keratoconus do you realise that your vision has been getting worse for a number of months or even years, and that you have slowly adapted. Along with the vision being blurred it is often also unstable, sometimes better, and sometimes much worse. You may also notice light sensitivity, and glare. In full sun or with bright lights the glare can be disabling, with your whole vision so dominated by a blur of light that it's hard to see anything else. This blurred vision can cause considerable problems for people with keratoconus, having a quite marked effect on their life, especially their working life. It is, however, important to remember that keratoconus DOES NOT cause blindness and the vast majority of people with keratoconus can see well enough to continue driving, working and lead a very active life.

Unless otherwise stated

Whileaway Guides are a world apart from traditional guides to top Australian destinations. Here's what you will love about the guides:

- They contain all the best bits for a destination – things to see, explore, eat, drink and places to stay. We have done the research for you so all you have to do is turn up
- They are 'unbiased and impartial' meaning no one has paid to be in the guides. They only make the cut if we have been there, seen it and loved it!
- 10 folded pocket-sized pages, written in itinerary style with a cute little map – easy to carry around
- A calendar of events so you can plan your trip around the action
- Fun, quirky facts that you didn't know about the region (perfect for the historians or trivia nuts!)
- A place for you to write notes of things to remember, like the name of the vintage vino you just sampled (or the phone number of the spunky waiter that just served you)
- They pack a punch but won't break the bank

Somaliland

with Addis Ababa and Eastern Ethiopia

Author: Briggs, Philip

Little known to the outside world, Somaliland has much to offer the truly intrepid traveller. This pioneering guidebook introduces one of the world's least chartered travel destinations. Author Philip Briggs covers everything from the low-key capital Hargeisa and mediaeval port of Berbera to peerless rock art sites such as Las Geel, and the scenery and wildlife of the Daallo Escarpment, towering 2,000m high above the pristine reefs of the Gulf of Aden. Somaliland's ruined cities and historical ports date back 5,000 years and have links with ancient Egypt and Axum in northern Ethiopia, as well as the Ottoman and British Empires. This guide offers background and practical information to every accessible corner of the country with the only real maps in existence of its capital and other large towns, and a section on wildlife.

What is there to say about New York that hasn't already been said in a thousand travel guides and a million blog posts? Well, everytime we find something new, something under the radar, something that will etch wild and fantastic memories on our readers' souls. New York is a city where trends are made and dreams formed, keeping up with the times is tough - but we try, oh how we try. This time round new additions include a Where to Eat breakdown for a snapshot of the restaurant scene, two trend pieces on how New York has changed over the last two years and a greater selection of hipper bars and restaurants. A Hedonist's Guide to New York is packed with photographs, hidden venues, and easy-to-use colour-coded maps. Hedonist's Guide to Las Vegas H/C

Author: Editors of Hg2

We couldn't really call ourselves hedonists if we didn't publish a guide on Vegas - why it's taken seven years we're not altogether sure, but it's here finally and filled with all the tips and hints that will make 'The Hangover' look like a Boy Scouts' jamboree. From the glaring neon magnificence of the strip replete with balletic fountains, the Eiffel Tower and unbridled consumerism to the real world Vegas where the residents go about their everyday life away from the twinkling lights. We explore the desert outposts of the world-famous chefs stacked on top of each other like pancakes, the sumptuous hotels, the incredible all-night parties, the gambling, the shows and who could forget the shopping. Vegas is a city where one never needs to breathe real air, closeted away in the metropolis-like resorts that voraciously compete for your hard-earned dollars. Hg2 Las Vegas has all the attitude and good looks of one of the strip's famous party girls, although slightly more intelligent, we hope...

Hg2 Presents... Winechap's Bordeaux H/C

Author: Baiocchi, Talia

Bordeaux is acknowledged to be the home of wine, the region where centuries of tradition have allowed mere men to perform miracles with the humble grape to create some of the most desired, and expensive, products on earth. Hg2 and WineChap have uncovered the most interesting wineries and chateaux, it's not all about the big names and top dollar tickets, it's about the unusual, the undiscovered and the quirky. While including some of the famous houses they have also gone in search of the newer, boutique brands of the region. The reviews of the wineries are combined with reviews of 20 fabulous and beautiful hotels, chateaux and bed and breakfasts; 30 gourmet restaurants where readers can pair wine with the menu and establish what wine should be really paired with what foods. Finally, they explore other things to do in the region, from tours and courses, to spas, walks and museums for the wine weary. This is the perfect companion for a trip to the region, far more informative, irreverent and realistic than the competition. It's not about dazzling readers with impressive vocabulary, pretentious descriptions and a self-inflated superiority - this book is for those who enjoy wine, want to know more and come with a sense of adventure.

Siberia

A Cultural History

Author: Haywood, Anthony

Before Russians crossed the Urals Mountains in the sixteenth century to settle their colony in North Asia, they heard rumours about bountiful fur, of bizarre people without eyes who ate by shrugging their shoulders and of a land where trees exploded from cold. This region of frozen tundra, endless forest and humming steppe between the Urals and the Pacific Ocean was a vast, strange and frightening paradise. It was Siberia. Tracing the historical contours of Siberia, A. J. Haywood offers a detailed account of the architectural and cultural landmarks of cities such as Irkutsk, Tobolsk, Barnaul and Novosibirsk.

Great Glen Canoe Trail

A Complete Guide to Scotland's First Formal Canoe Trail

Author: MacPherson, Donald

This is a complete guide to Scotland's first formal canoe trail, the Great Glen Canoe Trail. The guide is an essential resource to help you plan your paddling journey through the Great Glen across Scotland. As well as the calm waters of the Caledonian Canal there are the challenging open waters of Loch Lochy and Loch Ness. Here you will find advice on how to deal with the conditions as well as food, equipment, safety, communication and rescue. The best craft for the adventure are open canoes, sea kayaks or touring kayaks. There is advice on choosing the right craft, loading it, and the best ways of carrying it over portages. The coast to coast route can normally be completed in three to five days. We have split the route into a five day expedition and each day is described in detail, including camping and other forms of accommodation. There are also numerous single day options and, for the more advanced paddlers, suggested routes that link stretches of river with lochs and canal sections.
