New cooking & health titles from Woodslane

Seafood

We are a lucky country to have both an abundance of seafood and such a diverse multicultural society. Seafood covers each ethnic group's method of preparation and cooking - from the simplicity of Tony Tan's Cantonese-style whole steamed fish, to the more European sensibilities of Gabriel Gate - nothing esoteric or over-complicated to prepare. Edited by Keith Austin, author of Blokes.

London: The Executioner's City

Tyburn Fields is the best known site of execution in London, but London may be aptly named the executioner's city, so many were the places where executions could and did occur. This is a powerful evocation of the dark side of London's history, where the great and not so good, the poor and helpless, the cruel and the idealistic, crowd together to be punished in public.

A Game As Old As Empire

The Secret World of Economic Hitmen & the Web of Global Corruption

Foreword by Bernie Fraser

A Game As Old As Empire exposes shocking secrets of a worldwide web of control, corruption, and plunder. It tells how multinational corporations, governments, powerful individuals, banks, other financial institutions, and quasi- governmental agencies operate to enrich small elites and corporate coffers while often impoverishing masses of people and creating debt and dependency that economically enslave countries for generations. This new book provides the first full inside look at how this dark and dirty world functions.
