Fierce Females on Television

A Cultural History

By Nicole Evelina

A fascinating deep dive into how shows from Buffy the Vampire Slayer to The Equalizer have changed the way women are portrayed on television. The last three decades of television have been a formative and progressive time for female characters, as stronger, more independent women have appeared on screen to guide a new generation of viewers into their own era of power. These characters battle vampires, demons, corrupt government officials, and scientific programs all while dealing with the same real-world concerns their audiences face every day. In Fierce Females on Television: A Cultural History, Nicole Evelina examines ten shows from the past thirty years to unveil the enormous impact they have had on the way women are portrayed on television. She reveals how Buffy the Vampire Slayer, Charmed, Alias, Nikita, Agent Carter, Jessica Jones, Homeland, House of Cards, and Orphan Black.

The New True Crime

How the Rise of Serialized Storytelling is Transforming Innocence

By Diana Rickard

How serialized crime shows became an American obsession TV shows and podcasts like Making a Murderer, Serial, and Atlanta Monster have taken the cultural zeitgeist by storm and contributed to the release of wrongly imprisoned people-such as Adnan Syed. The popularity of these long-form true crime docuseries has sparked greater attention to issues of inequality, power, social class, and structural racism. More and more, the American public is asking, who is and is not deserving of punishment, and who is and is not protected by the law? In The New True Crime, Diana Rickard argues that these new true crime series deserve our attention for what they reveal about our societal understanding of crime and punishment, and for the new light they shine on the inequalities of the criminal justice system.

The Digital Departed

How We Face Death, Commemorate Life, and Chase Virtual Immortality

By Timothy Recuber

A fascinating exploration of the social meaning of digital death from blogs written by terminally ill authors to online notes left by those considering suicide, technology has become a medium for the dead and the dying to cope with the anxiety of death. Services like artificial intelligence chatbots, mind-uploading, and postmortem blog posts offer individuals the ability to cultivate their legacies in a bid for digital immortality. The Digital Departed explores the posthumous internet world from the perspective of both the living and the dead. Timothy Recuber traces how communication beyond death evolved over time. Historically, the methods of mourning have been characterized by unequal access to power and privilege.

Cracking the Coaching Code

Using Personality Archetypes to Maximize Performance

By PJ Caposey, Bryan Wills

Many adults cite coaches as the adult they remember most from their schooling experience - and that is not always a result of positive interactions. In education, we know the influence and impact coaches have, but there is little, if anything, done to help our coaches grow in any way outside of Xs and Os. Also, there is almost nothing connecting personality archetypes, and the Enneagram in particular, to education. As avid users of Enneagram in our Executive Coaching roles we have seen the profound impact it can have on positively impacting leadership, relationships, and the ability to elicit peak performance. In attempt to address both issues, Cracking the Coaching Code was created.

Primary Politics

Everything You Need to Know about How America Nominates Its Presidential Candidates

By Elaine C. Kamarck

The 2024 presidential primaries are on the horizon and this fourth edition of Elaine Kamarck's Primary Politics will be there to help make sense of them. Updated to include the 2020 election, it will once again be the guide to understanding the modern nominating system that gave the American electorate a choice between Donald Trump and Joe Biden. In Primary Politics, political insider Elaine Kamarck explains how the presidential nomination process became the often baffling system we have today, including the "robot rule." Her focus is the largely untold story of how presidential candidates since the early 1970s have sought to alter the rules in their favour and how their failures and successes have led to even more change. She describes how candidates have sought to manipulate the sequencing of primaries to their advantage and how Iowa and New Hampshire came to dominate the system.

Against the Death Penalty

By Stephen Breyer, John Bessler

A landmark dissenting opinion arguing against the death penalty. Does the death penalty violate the Constitution? In Against the Death Penalty, Justice Stephen Breyer argues that it does; that it is carried out unfairly and inconsistently and, thus, violates the ban on "cruel and unusual punishments" specified by the Eighth Amendment to the Constitution. "Today's administration of the death penalty," Breyer writes, "involves three fundamental constitutional defects: (1) serious unreliability, (2) arbitrariness in application, and (3) unconscionably long delays that undermine the death penalty's penological purpose. Perhaps as a result, (4) most places within the United States have abandoned its use."

This volume contains Breyers dissent in the case of Glossip v. Gross, which involved an unsuccessful challenge to Oklahomas use of a lethal-injection drug because it might cause severe pain. Justice Breyers legal citations have been edited to make them understandable to a general audience, but the text retains the full force of his powerful argument that the time has come for the Supreme Court to revisit the constitutionality of the death penalty. Breyer was joined in his dissent from the bench by Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg.

Their passionate argument has been cited by many legal experts including fellow Justice Antonin Scalia—as signalling an eventual Court ruling striking down the death penalty.

Glass Walls

Shattering the Six Gender Bias Barriers Still Holding Women Back at Work

By Amy B. Diehl, Leanne M. Dzubinski

A new, important, and richly detailed guide to understanding gender bias with practical solutions for leaders, workplace allies, and individual women. Gender bias is a powerful but hidden force that is still holding women back, keeping them from achieving their full potential and limiting organizations from achieving the creativity, problem solving, and growth that are possible with a diverse workforce. In this revealing new book, Amy Diehl and Leanne Dzubinski shine a new light on gender bias in the workplace, uncovering the barriers that work like glass walls surrounding women.

Through their original research, they have discovered six core factors and multiple subfactors of bias, giving names to some elements for the first time ever. Their findings and analysis present a new, important, and richly detailed guidebook to understanding gender bias.

They reveal: * How male privilege, the bedrock on which gender bias is built, results in a workplace created by men and for men How women encounter disproportionate constraints in that workplace, being expected to play supportive roles to men, * The surprising ways in which women experience insufficient support based on gender, * The concept of devaluation, and how it tells women they don't belong at work, * The troubling ways women face hostility to keep them in their supposed place, merely because of their gender.

Motivational Interviewing 4/e

Helping People Change and Grow

By William R. Miller, Stephen Rollnick

Now in a fully rewritten fourth edition, this is the authoritative presentation of motivational interviewing (MI), the powerful approach to facilitating change. It has been updated and streamlined to be even more user-friendly as a practitioner guide and course text. MI originators William R. Miller and Stephen Rollnick elucidate the four tasks of MI—engaging, focusing, evoking, and planning—and vividly demonstrate what they look like in action. A wealth of vignettes and interview examples illustrate the dos and don'ts of successful implementation in diverse contexts. The book reviews the evidence base for the approach and covers ways to assess the quality of MI. The companion website provides reflection questions, annotated case material, and additional helpful resources.

New to This Edition:

- * Most of the book is entirely new.
- * Addresses the breadth of MI applications not only in counselling and psychotherapy, but also in health care, education, coaching, management, and other contexts.
- * Discusses delivering MI remotely, simple versus complex affirmations, strategic use of directional questions, ethical considerations, and other new or expanded topics.
- * Increased emphasis on using MI throughout a client's process of change and growth, not just in the preparatory stage.

Pedagogical Features

- * New or updated online materials, including reflection questions and annotated cases.
- * Key points at the end of each chapter. "Personal Perspective" and "For Therapists" boxes in every chapter.
- * Extended bibliography and quick-reference glossary.
- * New self-assessment tool that targets the component skills of MI.
- * This title is part of the Applications of Motivational Interviewing Series, edited by Stephen Rollnick, William R. Miller, and Theresa B. Moyers.

Grief and Prolonged Grief Disorder

By Charles F. Reynolds, Stephen J. Cozza, Paul K. Maciejewski, Holly G. Prigerson, M. Katherine Shear

Grief and bereavement are a universal part of the human experience. The impact of grief on human lives is increasingly evident as the COVID-19 pandemic, environmental disasters, and—in the United States in particular—gun-related violence upend normal life and expose vast swaths of society to recurring and profound trauma.

It was only in 2022, with the publication of DSM-5-TR and in the context of considerable scientific progress, that prolonged grief disorder (PGD) was included as a formal diagnosis, one also reflected in ICD-11. Now, this new handbook provides both clinical and non-clinical readers with a science-based approach to identifying and addressing PGD, along with what might be termed normal grief. With consequences that include suffering, social isolation and loneliness, poor physical health, shortened life expectancy, and suicide, it is critical that PGD be recognized and treated as quickly as possible.

Thus, Grief and Prolonged Grief Disorder is a necessary resource: Its evidence-based approach gives readers the tools they need to recognize grief in themselves and others, strategies for the clinical management of typical grief, guidance on the specific treatment for PGD, and tips on when to refer patients for specialty care.

Becoming Better Psychotherapists Advancing Training and Supervision

By Louis Castonguay, Clara E. Hill

This book examines the training and supervision of psychotherapists, with a focus on psychotherapy efficacy and key issues facing psychotherapy training programs today.

While some therapists are more effective than others, good training and supervision can provide all clinicians with the skills and tools to become effective practitioners.

Considerable research has shown the broad efficacy of psychotherapy, but there are still many clients who do not fully benefit from therapy, some who don't benefit at all, and even some who get worse because of therapy.

The overall goal of training and supervision, and efforts to study these practices, should be to enhance the current degree of effectiveness that has been reached in psychotherapy.

This book offers innovative knowledge on how to better understand and improve training by relying on the reflections, research discoveries, and collaborative work of psychotherapy scholars who represent a diversity of theoretical orientations, methodological expertise, and levels of experience.

Treating Childhood Depression with Contextual Emotion Regulation Therapy

By Maria Kovacs

This book is the authoritative presentation of contextual emotion regulation therapy (CERT), an innovative intervention expressly designed for depressed children ages 7-13 and their parents. CERT is grounded in decades of research on the development of emotion regulation and on "mood repair" difficulties as a risk factor for clinical depression. Step by step, Maria Kovacs describes ways to teach children skills to modulate feelings of sadness and distress and break the hold of depression symptoms. Extensive therapist, parent, and child exchanges illustrate key treatment principles. Clinicians learn how to structure CERT sessions and implement personalized social-interpersonal, cognitive, behavioral, problem-solving, and psychoeducational interventions.

Attachment-based Practice with Adults

The interviewing guide

Clark Baim and Tony Morrison

Attachment-Based Practice with Adults

The Interviewing Guide

By Clark Baim, Tony Morrison

Attachment theory is a framework for understanding human behaviour that helps us identify the nature and source of an individual or group's responses to anxiety, change, threat, or danger, and can be used across a range of therapeutic interventions.

Integrated within the first edition of Attachment-based Practice with Adults but bound and sold separately for the second edition, The Interviewing Guide lets readers see how the three core attachment strategies – distancing ('A'), preoccupied ('C') and balanced ('B'), influenced by procedural, sensory, semantic, episodic, and integrative memory systems – are typically expressed in verbal and non-verbal communication.

Reproducible discourse marker sheets allow readers to keep a log of interviews to become more familiar with patterns of discourse and their underlying functions.

He has published numerous books, including Handbook of Attachment, and over 400 journal articles and book chapters.

Attachment Theory Expanded

Security Dynamics in Individuals, Dyads, Groups, and Societies

By Mario Mikulincer, Phillip R. Shaver

From pioneering attachment researchers, this book takes an expansive look at the nature and functions of security dynamics in personal and social relationships.

Mario Mikulincer and Phillip R. Shaver examine how attachment operates not only in close dyadic relationships (parent-child, romantic partners), but also between teachers and students, therapists and clients, physicians and patients, leaders and followers, and within organizations.

Also considered is the nature of "attachments" to objects; commercial brands; substances, such as foods and drugs; and places.

The book highlights ways to integrate attachment theory with other influential social and psychological theories concerning factors that enable individuals, groups, and societies to flourish despite inevitable threats, conflicts, and losses.

The Essentials of Conditioning and Learning 5/e

By Michael Domjan, Andrew R Delamater

Thoroughly updated and revised, this new edition is more sophisticated, current, and complete than ever, while still retaining the book's signature emphasis on the "essentials" of conditioning and learning. Through four previous editions, students and researchers have relied on this book's clear, concise, and highly accessible overview of the processes and mechanisms responsible for conditioning and learning.

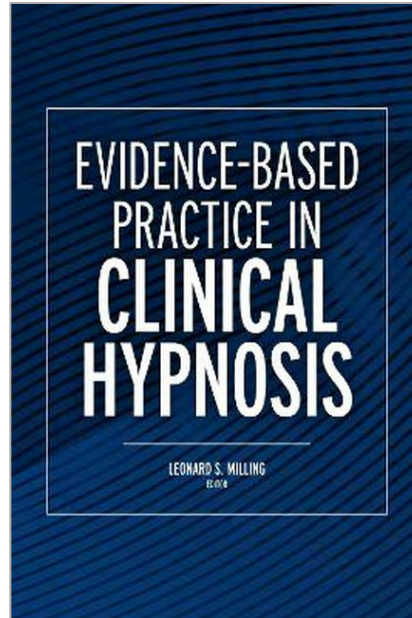

Domjan and Delamater summarize major theories of how humans and nonhuman animals learn, along with the classic experiments that support these theories and how they have been applied to address real-world problems.

New in the fifth edition: * A streamlined presentation, clarified explanations, and copious new research, * Greater emphasis on how concepts relate to common human experiences-for example, learning to discriminate between phone apps or wine tasting, * Increased discussion of clinical and translational relevance of research with laboratory animals, * Additional coverage of current associative, ethological, behavioral, and information processing approaches to the study of learning and behavior, * New neuroscience findings to clarify behavioral mechanisms, * A list of YouTube mini-lecture videos designed to accompany and augment the text.

Evidence-Based Practice in Clinical Hypnosis

By Leonard Milling

Hypnosis affords clinicians a brief, efficient, and cost-effective methodology to address a wide range of psychological conditions and disorders. This volume demonstrates both how hypnotic techniques can supplement science-based clinical interventions and how clinicians can use hypnosis with the assurance of a strong empirical foundation to guide their practice.

While hypnosis has carved a well-earned place in the field of psychological science and clinical practice, views of hypnosis as gimmicky or fantastical are still stubbornly rooted in our collective consciousness, thanks to media-driven, outmoded, and inaccurate notions.

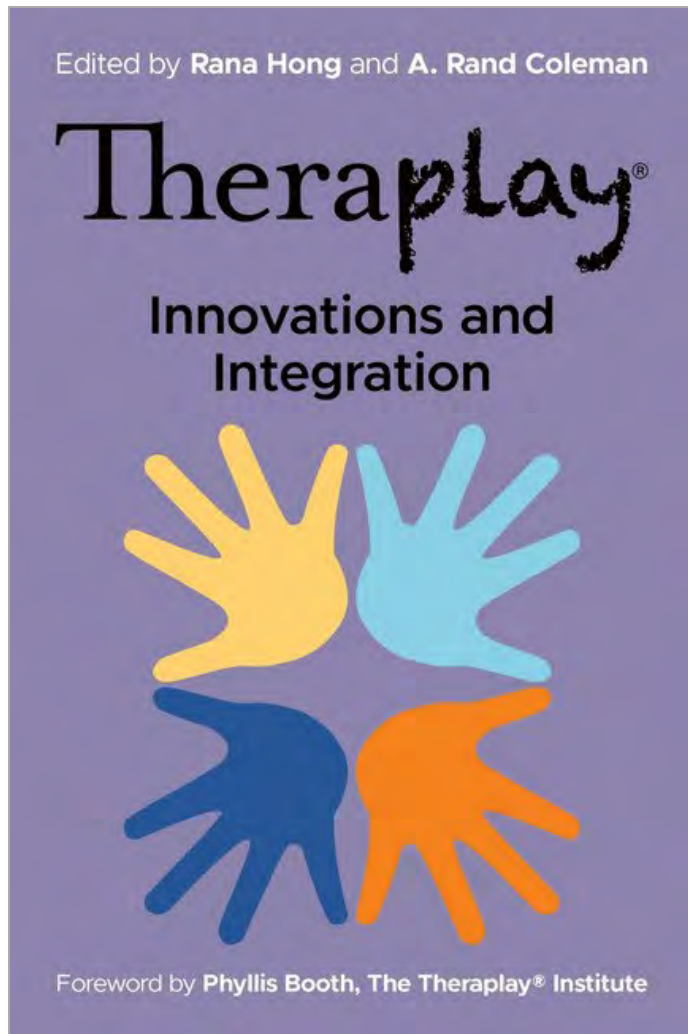

This book compiles the scientific evidence for and the clinical practice of hypnosis to treat a range of problems and symptoms. Included are chapters on working with anxiety, depression, acute pain, chronic pain, and other behavioral medicine problems, as well as a chapter on working with children and adolescents. Contributors review the empirical evidence for the effectiveness of hypnosis for the problem under consideration, offer illustrative case materials, and provide examples of specific hypnotic inductions and suggestions.

Making Space for Autism

Strategies for Assessing and Modifying Environments to meet the needs of Autistic people

By Sharon McCarthy, Micaela Connolly

This person-centred environmental assessment and modification programme moves away from this, with the aim to provide information and tools for assessing and reflecting on features of the autistic person’s environment to best support their comfort, autonomy, and agency. Making Space for Autism has been written as a collaboration between autistic and non-autistic professionals, the authors break down each environmental element (physical, sensory, emotional, communicative, and social) by chapter and include tools, resources, and a checklist as reference points to equip the reader with a framework from which to begin.

Autistic Masking

Understanding Identity management and the role of stigma

By Amy Pearson, Kieran Rose

Masking is a form of identity management involving consciously or unconsciously suppressing aspects of identity and action. Often seen in socially marginalised groups, it is found to contribute towards poorer outcomes for autistic people and is related to higher prevalence of suicidality, exhaustion, burnout, and mental health difficulties. Though masking has been predominantly framed as a social strategy to ‘blend in’ with neurotypical (non-autistic) people, emerging research suggests that masking can also form as a response to stigma and from traumatic experiences. Taking an intersectional lens to consider how autistic identity may interact with other aspects of selfhood, the authors will provide a holistic understanding of the most up-to-date evidence with the aim to develop solid knowledge and practice in health and education.

Understanding Me, Understanding You

A Guide for Supporting Autistic People, Easing Anxiety and Promoting Mutual Understanding

By Susan Allen

Good communication is central to all relationships, yet the unpredictability of interpersonal exchanges can cause significant anxiety for autistic people and create a barrier to successful communication. Understanding Me, Understanding You is a guide for anyone working with and supporting autistic people. The aim is to encourage the reader to consider how they can create ‘autistic spaces’ where there is predictability and trust, enabling autistic people to engage, contribute and grow. It seeks to promote mutual understanding, starting by encouraging the reader to understand themselves, their own beliefs and attitudes and the way that this can influence their behaviour; and then to understand another and, in turn, help them to understand.

The Art of Caring for People with Intellectual Disabilities

Enhancing Quality of Life Through Attitudes, Education and Behaviour

By Robert S.P. Jones, Jonathan Williams

The Art of Caring for People with Intellectual Disabilities considers how the skills and attitudes of a carer can elevate the life of the person they care for. The book is based on Acceptance and Commitment Therapy (ACT) and asks carers to analyse their own core values in relation to their role and to identify strategies to help them fulfil their values. It explores the multifaceted nature of the caring role – from carer to nurse to companion and beyond – and how to overcome the range of challenges involved in caring for people with intellectual disabilities using the concept of ACT to enhance the wellbeing of both carers and those they care for.

Flourish

A Guide to Self-Care for Midwives

By Kate Greenstock, Sharon Byron

The only book addressing the stark psychological impact of midwifery work while giving midwives the tools to choose a brighter future. Flourish aims to support you as a midwife to do two things: to name what's going on around you and within you, then to find and claim your distinctive place in the midwifery world. You might be a newly qualified or early career midwife facing the challenges of finding your voice as well as your feet. Maybe you're an established midwife but feel as though you have lost your way – and with it the energy to reshape either yourself or the environment you work in. Perhaps you're a team leader seeking to find the vocabulary to connect with your team, acknowledge what they might be feeling and reach out for resources and tools to support them to thrive, reflect and grow.

Fast Facts for the School Nurse

By Janice Loschiavo

Fast Facts for the School Nurse provides quick access to information that busy school nurses need to practice competently and efficiently. Written by a nurse with more than 25 years of school nursing experience, this consistently organized reference offers straightforward guidelines to a range of daily tasks and nursing responsibilities. It provides clinical protocols for safe management of common childhood illnesses, accidents, and emergencies, along with legal and ethical considerations, documentation, and high-risk areas in school nursing practice.

The fourth edition has been substantially revised. Of significance is the first chapter which provides Words of Wisdom from school nurses and self-help guidance. Included also is expanded coverage of mental health issues, gender identity and transgenderism, and drug use. Information on technology in the school health office will also be updated. In addition, the new edition features new information on the COVID-19 pandemic and its lasting influence on school nursing practice. The summary questions at the end of each chapter will provide readers with immediate feedback. Most school nurses are thrown into their positions with little or no experience or orientation to the school setting. Finding appropriate resources is difficult. Fast Facts for the School Nurse provides the concise and practical information needed for immediate school nurse performance and is suitable for both the nurse new to practice and the experienced school nurse.

The A-Z of Trauma-Informed Teaching

Strategies and Solutions to Help with Behaviour and Support for Children Aged 3-11

By Sarah Naish, Anne Oakley, Hannah O'Brien, Sair Penna, Daniel Thrower

Key Sales Points:

- * An A-Z of successful strategies for teachers to help with the behaviour and learning of children who struggle in school settings.
- * Sarah Naish is a best-selling JKP author with her Therapeutic Books Range selling over 70,000 copies across print and digital.
- * Trauma-informed education is a hot topic - two of JKPs bestselling titles in recent years have been on this topic (Brunner, Trauma-informed Restorative Education 9781787752672 and Brunzell, Creating Trauma-Informed, Strengths-Based Classroom 978-1787753747).
- * A-Z dip-in format is perfect for busy teachers requiring immediate support and strategies for certain behaviours (one of the successful ingredients to Sarah Naish's bestseller The A-Z of Therapeutic Parenting).
- * Expert author team - combines Sarah's platform as an expert on trauma with co-authors' platforms in teaching and school leadership.

What does trauma-informed teaching really look like in the classroom, and can we really achieve it? Maybe you, like many other teachers, will reach the end of a busy day feeling exhausted, deskilled and less than keen to dive into a book on the theory of trauma.

Author Bio:

Daniel Thrower is CEO of The Wensum Trust, Anne Oakley is the Strategic Lead for Attachment and Trauma at The Wensum Trust but also supports Norfolk schools, Sair Penna works within the Centre of Excellence in Child Trauma supporting the delivery of education, training, resources, peer support and therapeutic support to families who care for neurodivergent children and children who have experienced trauma, Hannah O'Brien is founder of and CEO of Wickelm House Alternative Learning Centre and Sarah Naish is CEO and founder of the Centre for Excellence in Child Trauma. This talented author team combines extensive experience in both teaching and supporting children with developmental trauma and attachment difficulties.

Luckily you won't find any complex theory or jargon in this book, but you will gain an understanding of how small humans develop, how perplexing behaviours can be explained and learn inclusive strategies that will help all children in your classroom and school. Part 1 provides you with an explanation of what trauma-informed teaching involves. Then, Part 2 lists an A-Z of issues and behaviours for you to flip to in your busiest moments, ranging from Aggression and Lateness right through to Learning Challenges and Zzz (sleep issues).

Gain new understanding into the children in your classroom with this book offering you strategies to better support every child's mental health and resilience.

Make Your Own Rainbow

A colourful approach to all things STEAM

By Leonie Briggs

An engaging book that identifies creative, fun, and easy ways to explore STEAM (science, technology, engineering, arts and maths) subjects using the colours of the rainbow to inspire and enthuse young learners. Why not spend your day creating your very own rainbow? Looking to add some STEAM to your day, but unsure of the best way to do it? Dive into this creative STEAM book to spark young people's interest in a simple, safe, and cost-effective way. Leonie provides a colourful approach to teaching tricky subjects, ranging from colour and chemical reactions to photosynthesis with many more in between. Make Your Own Rainbow is a compilation of fun, easy, creative, and effective activities for teachers of both primary and secondary school children with ideas that parents and carers can also enjoy at home. The aim of this book is to inspire young people to discover, interact with and enjoy STEAM subjects and in doing so, to help them develop a life-long love of these topics. Make Your Own Rainbow offers a fresh perspective on teaching STEAM with a real emphasis on memorable learning. Leonie aims to make STEAM accessible to all through a range of tasks, resources and activities inspired by the colours of the rainbow.

Examples include: * Rainbow Trail: Are you able to create a rainbow from nature/in the home or classroom? * Bubbles: Understand the colour and structure of bubbles in this mesmerising experiment. * Rainbow Indicator: Investigate if certain household objects are acid or alkali.

Maximizing the Impact of Coaching Cycles

By Gene Tavernetti Ed. D

Coaching cycles are the most impactful contact a coach can have with teachers, but they are also the activity that requires the highest level of skill.

Collaboratively planning and observing lessons, and giving supportive feedback on those lessons, is the best way to improve the effectiveness of teaching and therefore student outcomes.

Yet this core activity is often undermined by the myriad other demands on a coach's time.

This book addresses the issues, roadblocks, and fears faced by coaches and administrators in effectively launching and facilitating a program of coaching and takes you through the coaching cycle itself in practical, applied, and no-nonsense steps that will help you maximize its impact.

If you are a coach, a coach of coaches, or an administrator, following the suggestions in this book will help you achieve a much larger return on your coaching investment.

There will be more teachers coached, increased instructional effectiveness, and ultimately increased student achievement.
