Motivational Interviewing and CBT

Combining Strategies for Maximum Effectiveness

Sylvie Naar and Steven A. Safren

Foreword by William R. Miller

Motivational Interviewing and CBT Combining Strategies for Maximum Effectiveness

By Sylvie Naar, Steven A. Safren, William R. Miller

NEW IN PAPERBACK

Providing tools to enhance treatment of any clinical problem, this book shows how integrating motivational interviewing (MI), and cognitive-behavioral therapy (CBT) can lead to better client outcomes than using either approach on its own.

The authors demonstrate that MI strategies are ideally suited to boost client motivation and strengthen the therapeutic relationship, whether used as a pretreatment intervention or throughout the course of CBT.

User-friendly features include extensive sample dialogues, learning exercises for practitioners, and 35 reproducible client handouts that can be downloaded and printed in a convenient 8½" x 11" size.

This title is part of the Applications of Motivational Interviewing Series, edited by Stephen Rollnick, William R. Miller, and Theresa B. Moyers.

Author Bio:

Sylvie Naar, PhD, is Professor and Director of the Division of Behavioral Sciences in the Department of Family Medicine and Public Health Sciences at Wayne State University. She conducts research on the use of MI and MI integrated with CBT to improve health behaviors for many populations. She also studies how best to teach MI and how to implement the approach within organizations.

Steven A. Safren, PhD, ABPP, is Professor of Psychology at the University of Miami. Previously, he was Professor of Psychology in Psychiatry at Harvard Medical School and Director of Behavioral Medicine at Massachusetts General Hospital (MGH). He is a past editor of Cognitive and Behavioral Practice and an associate editor of the Journal of Consulting and Clinical Psychology. Dr. Safren is a recipient of the Pioneer Award for Outstanding Contributions to HIV Adherence Science/Practice from the International Association of Providers of AIDS Care, as well as mentoring/training awards from Division 44 (Society for the Psychological Study of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender Issues) of the American Psychological Association, Harvard Medical School, and the Division of Psychology Training at MGH.

Gender-Affirming Psychiatric Care

By Teddy G. Goetz, Alex S. Keuroghlian

In 2020, the National Survey on Drug Use and Health estimated that 40.3 million Americans met the criteria for a substance use disorder (SUD) in the past year. Yet few FDAapproved treatments exist for SUDs.

Gender-Affirming Psychiatric Care is the first textbook in the field to provide an affirming, intersectional, and evidence informed approach to caring for transgender, nonbinary, and/or gender expansive (TNG) individuals.

KATE SHERMAN and MICHELLE HENDERSON

DBT FOR EVERYONE

A Guide to the Perks, Pitfalls, and Possibilities of DBT for Better Mental Health

DBT for Everyone

A Guide to the Perks, Pitfalls, and Possibilities of DBT for Better Mental Health

By Michelle Henderson, Kate Sherman

Key Sales Points:

*A simple guide to using DBT skills in daily life from the hosts of the popular DBT and Me podcast.

DBT skills can be a fantastic way to approach life's challenges. But where do you start?

This down-to-earth guide walks you through the four DBT modules, mindfulness, distress tolerance, emotion regulation, and interpersonal effectiveness.

Each chapter explains how to practice the key skills and dives into the authors' own experiences to explore what works, what doesn't, and which skills work best for challenges.

Journaling prompts help you work out how to fit the skills into your own day-to-day life, so you can make changes that work for you.

DBT works by helping you to understand difficult emotions and develop skills to regulate them in a healthy way.

Whether you struggle with mental health difficulties, or just want to improve the way you handle everyday stress and challenges, this book will filter out the jargon and show you how to use DBT skills in real life.

Author Bio:

Kate Sherman and Michelle Henderson are Licensed Mental Health Counselors and hosts of the popular podcasts, DBT and Me and The Couch and the Chair. They both have personal and professional experience of using DBT skills and are passionate about communicating the benefits of DBT more widely. Both authors are based in the US.

We're All Neurodiverse

How to Build a Neurodiversity-Affirming Future and Challenge Neuronormativity

By Sonny Jane Wise

AUS AUTHOR

Key Sales Points:

- * Author with lived experience and a growing 70k strong platform- Sonny Jane Wise has a dedicated and growing Instagram @livedexperineeeducator where they share tips, explanations that directly engages with the book's audience of neurodivergent people, parents, and allies.
- * Radical interpretation of neurodiversity sets this book apart from other neurodiversity guides, sensitively making the argument that diagnosis such as schizophrenia and bipolar disorder should also fall under the term neurodivergent.
- * Appeals to a wide cross audience - with narratives and interviews from people from people of colour, across cultures, age ranges, genders, and sexuality.

This affirming and thoughtful guide outlines how and why we need to fundamentally shift our thinking about neurodivergent people. We need to accept differences rather than framing them as a problem, abnormality, or disorder.

Welcome to the neurodiversity paradigm. At times challenging and radical, Sonny Jane Wise explores the intersections of neurodivergence with disability, gender, sexuality, and race. Through interviews, narratives, and the lens of their own raw experiences, they consider how current systems and structures that impact neurodivergent people are rooted in outdated capitalist and racist frameworks, and how these need to change and adapt to be neurodiversity affirming.

Sonny Janes words are a rallying cry to challenge the pathology paradigm. And instead offers nine principles for facilitating change with core values that are reflected in deeply personal stories from the neurodivergent community. Powerful and persuasive, this book is a clarion call for a kinder and more neurodiversity affirming society.

Music Has Power (R) in Senior Wellness and Healthcare

Best Practices from Music Therapy

By Concetta Tomaino, The Institute of Music, and Neurologic Function

Key Sales Points:

* How to introduce and use music therapeutically in senior healthcare settings, both in home and in agency, with practical directives and evidence-based interventions.

The transformative role music therapy can play in all areas of healthcare, and especially in the care of older adults is increasingly apparent. However, while music activities are present in most care settings, these activities don't provide the therapeutic benefits that are possible with music therapy-informed interventions and programs. Best practices from music therapy are transforming dementia care and have the potential to improve healthcare-and health-for older people, whatever their needs, wherever they receive care. With chapters on mental health and wellness, dementia, as well as movement and speech rehabilitation, this comprehensive and friendly practice guide will help all caregivers use music therapy best practices to provide better, more fulfilling support across all senior healthcare settings.

By James M. Shultz, Lisa M. Sullivan

Now in its second edition, Public Health: An Introduction to the Science and Practice of Population Health is expanded in both scope and depth of content to better aid students who are launching their public health studies and preparing for professions in the field. This edition features a greater emphasis on the social determinants of health, health equity, prevention of disease and disability, and the practice of public health. Public Health explores both historical public health issues and contemporary public health challenges-including environmental justice, food deserts, climate change, and COVID-19-through the social ecological lens and with a life course perspective. In addition to establishing a solid knowledge base on the foundations, functions, and core values of public health, the book presents an engaging survey of the social ecological framework and of the demographic factors affecting health at different life stages.

Reducing Risk in Health and Social Care Towards Outstanding Teams and Services

By Terri Salt

The Towards Outstanding series offers essential resources for health and social care services regulated by the Care Quality Commission, built around the five questions that inspectors use (are services safe, effective, caring, responsive and well-led?). Written by a senior CQC inspector, Reducing Risk in Health and Social Care takes a close-up look at the are they safe? aspect of assessment, showing that exceptional safety is about the consistent and effective identification and mitigation of everyday risks for the service type. The CQC has introduced a new approach involving quality statements, with a greater focus on risk, and this will be the first book to include the new standards.

Why Single Parents Matter

By Amy Brown

Many parents plan to introduce a bottle early in their child's life, whether they're going to use formula or expressed breastmilk. Many more find themselves going down this pathway even though they hadn't planned to.

One in six families with children under 18 in the UK is headed by a single parent, yet portrayals of single parents in the public eye are often one-sided, focusing on challenges and negative stories.

Raising a Resilient Child in a World of Adversity Effective Parenting for Every Family

By Amanda Sheffield Morris, Jennifer Hays-Grudo

Parenting doesn't always come naturally. This book provides expert guidance for caregivers who struggle with parenting because of adversity in their own lives, or simply because they are raising kids in an increasingly stressful world. As parents and caregivers, we want to shore up kids to help them through difficult or disturbing experiences. But if we or our child have experienced adversity or trauma, this can be especially challenging, and we may not have good parenting models to draw from. How do we know whether we are providing our child or teen with too much structure or not enough? How do we provide discipline that is effective but not harsh? How do we teach our kids to be resilient and manage their feelings when we have trouble managing our own?

Anything for My Child Making Impossible Decisions for Medically Complex Children

By Stephanie Nimmo

Every parent wants the same thing. A happy, healthy child who will enjoy a fulfilling life. But what happens when things don't go according to plan? What happens when parents must become advocates for their child's healthcare needs? Who decides what is in a child's 'best interests'? Stephanie Nimmo faced these questions first-hand when her daughter, Daisy, was diagnosed with a life-limiting condition as a baby. Seen through the lens of Stephanie's own experiences, this sensitive book delves into the complex world of medical ethics and paediatric palliative care. From recognising tipping points to the importance of building relationships with palliative care teams well before crisis, this book explores how medical professionals can better support families throughout their child's care.

I Don't Want to Be a Mom

By Irene Olmo, Kendra Boileau

What does choice really mean for a woman? In I Don't Want to Be a Mom, Irene Olmo recounts her coming-of-age transformation from assuming she will one day start a family to realizing that she just doesn't want to be a mom. With an affecting mix of humour and introspection, she describes the subtle and not-so-subtle ways she was pressured to have children and the feelings of isolation and self-doubt that ensued. Her delightful full-color illustrations capture perfectly the maddeningly narrow-minded reactions of those around her as well as her own discomfort and frustration. A true story of liberation and self-empowerment in the face of societal prejudice, I Don't Want to Be a Mom questions the imposition of motherhood on women as both an expectation and a path toward fulfillment. It shows us that "choice" has more than one dimension and that, ultimately, some questions in life are more complicated than they seem.

Alex and the Scary Things

A Story to Help Children Who Have Experienced Something Scary

By Melissa Moses, Alison MacEachern

Alex is an alligator who has experienced 'scary' things. In this charmingly illustrated story, he talks about how this affects him and how he copes. By reading about the different parts of Alex that come out because of the scary things he has experienced, such as The Destroyer when he is angry, Spacey when he dissociates, and Puddles when he is sad, children will learn to recognise when they experience these emotions themselves and find solutions for overcoming them. Alex talks about the different coping strategies he uses to get back to being himself, such as breathing techniques, a counting game, painting, and finding a safe space he can go to, encouraging children to think about when they can do to help themselves handle difficult feelings.

Once Upon My Dads' Divorce

By Seamus Kirst, Noemie Gionet Landry

Helps children understand the divorce of same-sex parents and how a child's living situation may change. Once upon a time, Grayson's life was like a fairy tale. He lived in a big brick house with Papa and Daddy. They had chocolate chip pancakes on Saturdays and read bedtime stories together every night. But when Grayson's dads get a divorce, everything changes. First, Papa moves into an apartment. Then, Daddy moves into a smaller house. Now it's one week with Papa, then one week with Daddy. Will Grayson ever feel like himself again? Once Upon My Dads' Divorce sensitively portrays the challenges of moving from one house with both parents to two houses and offers reassurance on many questions and feelings readers may have after their parents' divorce.

The Elf, the Princess and the Impossible Shoe

A Story about Overcoming Perfectionism

By Anthony Lloyd Jones

Once upon a time, in a kingdom far away, there lived an elf. The elf was a shoemaker, and her shoes were admired around the kingdom. The elf was confident at her job, until one day the Princess ordered a pair of shoes for the Royal Ball. Putting pressure on herself and comparing her work to her friends' on 'Elfstagram', the elf is worried that her shoes will not be perfect. The Elf, The Princess and the Impossible Shoe explores childhood perfectionism and the anxiety that it can cause and offers children aged 5+ effective tools to deal with their feelings.

Women, Hormones & The Menstrual Cycle 3/e (re-issue)

By Ruth Trickey

AUS AUTHOR

Key Sales Points:

- * Originally published in the 1990s, has become a must-have book for practitioners.
- * Full of the wisdom and experience of a life-long career.
- * Re-issue of the latest 2011 edition.

Women, Hormones & the Menstrual Cycle is the definitive guide to natural medicine and women's health, focusing on health complaints from adolescence through to menopause and beyond.

Ruth Trickey and practitioners from the Melbourne Holistic Health Group and other contributors, provide comprehensive information and treatment protocols based on years of research and clinical experience.

This book is essential reading for professional health care providers and health science students, as well as individuals interested in a more thorough understanding of the health concerns affecting women.

This 3rd edition was fully revised in 2011 providing research on evidenced-based natural medicine.

A range of gynaecological complaints are discussed including premenstrual syndrome (PMS), endometriosis, polycystic ovarian syndrome (PCOS), amenorrhoea and menopausal symptoms.

Unique to Women, Hormones & the Menstrual Cycle is the focus on a collaborative model of health care, where naturopathic treatments for specific conditions are presented alongside more conventional medical approaches.

Author Bio:
 Ruth Trickey has spent 48 years in health care, 40 years of which were as a natural therapist. Over this time, she has had a particular focus on building bridges between disparate health care disciplines. In the beginning this was no mean feat - the 'us and them' culture was very much alive and well when she first started practicing in the late 1970s. Through lecturing, writing, and in the clinic, she developed a team approach which aimed to allow patients to achieve the best from all health care modalities. She termed this collaborative medicine, and it is an approach that has spread far and wide amongst Australian practitioners.

Leading Maths

The essential guide for new and aspiring maths leaders

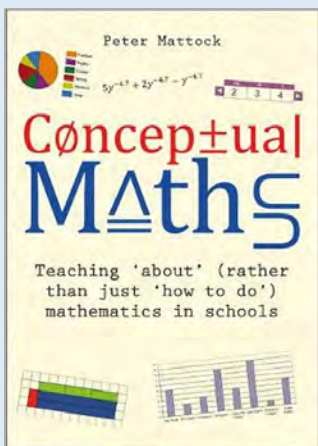

By Peter Mattock

Offers practical guidance and advice on how to approach maths leadership and explores the challenges and rewards that come with this unique position. Leading maths at any school is a unique challenge. Being a “core” subject comes with pressures not experienced in many other subject areas. In addition, the relatively abstract nature of the subject content, combined with the contrasting societal and parental attitudes to mathematics, can complicate communication and stifle progress. Most pupils and parents will recognise the importance of the subject, but many feel it’s fine to “not be good at maths”. Leading a subject area in schools is often about managing what seem at face value to be contradictions, and nowhere is this truer than in leading maths.

Conceptual Maths

Teaching 'about' (rather than just 'how to do') mathematics in schools

By Peter Mattock

Empowers teachers to support students on a coherent journey through school mathematics, showcasing the best models, metaphors, and representations along with excellent examples, explanations and tasks that can be used across the curriculum. Concepts are at the heart of the study of mathematics. They are the ideas that remain constant whenever they are encountered, but which combine and build upon each other to create the mathematical universe. It is the structure of each concept that gives rise to the procedures that are used in calculation and problem-solving – and by learning about these structures, a learner can make sense of how different processes are doing what they do, using them flexibly as need demands.

Visible Maths

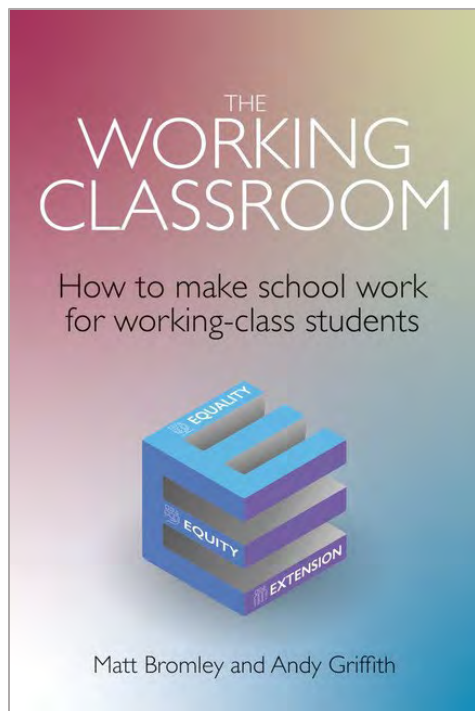

Using representations and structure to enhance mathematics teaching in schools

By Peter Mattock

Visible Maths supports maths teachers in the use of concrete and pictorial representations to illuminate key mathematical ideas and concepts. Viewing the maths lesson as an opportunity for pupils to develop a deep understanding of the concepts and relationships in maths, rather than to simply learn how to follow algorithms and processes that lead to ‘the answer’, is increasingly recognised as the pinnacle of best practice in maths education. In this book, Peter Mattock explores this approach in detail: focusing on the representations and structures that illustrate and elucidate key mathematical ideas, demonstrating their strengths in developing conceptual understanding, and exposing the potential pitfalls of their use and how to avoid them.

The Working Classroom
How to make schoolwork for working-class students

By Matt Bromley, Andy Griffith

Offers practical guidance and advice on how to approach maths leadership and explores the challenges and rewards that come with this unique position. Most pupils and parents will recognise the importance of the subject, but many feel it's fine to "not be good at maths". Leading a subject area in schools is often about managing what seem at face value to be contradictions, and nowhere is this truer than in leading maths. Offering practical advice and guidance, Leading Maths explores how maths leaders can make the most of their role and shows them how to manage the daily pressures and demands that come with it.

Backed up by specific examples from fifteen years of experience leading maths, Peter Mattock goes on to examine the more long-term, strategic view of maths leadership, including how leaders can work with their teams to develop high quality mathematics teaching and learning for all pupils. Leading Maths also contains contributions from experienced maths leaders who examine specific approaches to leading maths across phases and in different settings, including multi-academy trusts.

Activate
A professional learning resource to help teachers and leaders promote self-regulated learning

By James Mannion, Louise Stoll, Karen Spence-Thomas, Greg Ross

Created by James Mannion, Louise Stoll, Karen Spence-Thomas and Greg Ross, Activate is a card-based professional learning resource that aims to improve pupils' experiences and outcomes by promoting self-regulated learning among leaders, teachers and pupils. This resource enables teachers and leaders to 'activate' pupils to become the drivers of their own learning.

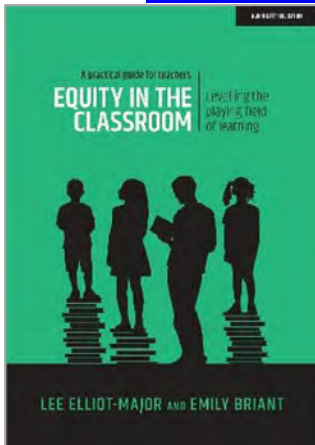

Comprising six sets of resource cards and a clear and detailed facilitator guide – along with an extensive bibliography and additional downloadable materials – Activate has been designed to support time-pressed teachers and leaders to understand the theory and practice of self-regulated learning in an accessible way. Working through the activities will enable teachers and leaders to realise the potential of these powerful ideas in working with pupils, while helping them to regulate their own learning. The Activate cards are designed to facilitate learning conversations and associated actions, to help teachers, leaders and pupils become more confident, proactive, self-regulated learners.

Equity in the classroom

By Lee Elliot Major, Emily Briant

Equity in the Classroom sets out a new equity-based approach in education to help teachers improve the prospects of underserved and working-class pupils who for too long have not fulfilled their full potential in schools. The equity approach recognises that we must address our own cultural biases and barriers within the classroom, while helping to remove extra barriers to learning experienced by children outside schools. Based on thousands of research studies and years of working with expert teachers, the book sets out the principles and practical strategies for trainee teachers, teachers, and teacher leaders. Adopting an equity mindset involves four key principles: equity not equality - doing more to overcome the extra barriers some learners experience, capacity not deficit thinking - recognising the talents in all pupils, deep not shallow relationships - developing authentic individual relationships with pupils and more.

STEM Education in Underserved Schools

Promoting Equity, Access, and Excellence

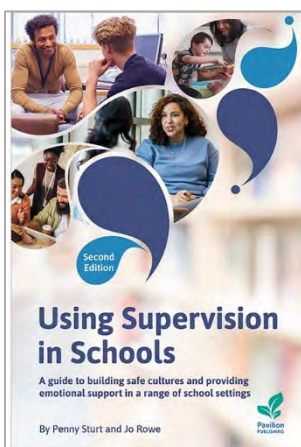

By Julia V. Clark, Edmund W. Gordon

Offers a model for increasing equity in STEM education at the K-12 level in the United States. In STEM Education in Underserved Schools, editor Julia V. Clark addresses an urgent national problem: the need to provide all students with a quality STEM education. Clark brings together a prestigious group of scholars to uncover the factors that impede equity and access in STEM education teaching and learning and provides research-based strategies to address these inequities. This contributed volume demonstrates that students of color and those from lower socioeconomic communities have less access to qualified science and mathematics teachers, less access to strong STEM curriculum, less access to resources, and fewer classroom opportunities than their peers at other schools.

Using Supervision in Schools 2/e

A Guide to Building Safe Cultures and Providing Emotional Support 2023

By Penny Sturt, Jo Rowe

As a universal service, education is expected to safeguard and meet the needs of all pupils, some of whom may have complex issues, and to offer emotional support for children and their families. There are increasing pressures and changes facing schools and teachers, accelerated by the impact of the pandemic; however, unlike other stressful professions, there is no accepted framework for supporting school staff to deal with the personal and emotional rigours of their role. Supervision offers a solution - an effective method of supporting staff with safeguarding, and with the broader emotional demands of their work. Based on direct experience and presenting an Integrated Model of Supervision (IMS), this book offers guidance for instigating supervision in school settings.
