Author Bio:

Michael Morcombe, a passionate bird enthusiast since high school, transitioned from bird photography to studying birds themselves, recording their behaviours and habitats. His career as a photographer and author flourished with over forty titles, including renowned works like Birds of Australia. Encountering challenges in capturing perfect shots, he honed his skills in sketching and painting birds while refining his ideas for an authoritative bird guide. His dedication culminated in the creation of the Field Guide to Australian Birds, praised for its ease of use and comprehensive coverage. Morcombe's contributions earned him accolades such as the NSW Royal Zoological Society's Whitley Award and the 1969 C.J. Dennis award.

A Furious Devotion
The Life of Shane MacGowan

By Richard Balls

This paperback edition has been fully updated to include Shane's final months and the response to his passing.

Punk protagonist, legendary drinker, Irish musical icon. This is the complete and extraordinary journey of the Pogues' notorious frontman from outcast to national treasure.

A Furious Devotion vividly recounts the experiences that shaped the greatest songwriter of his generation, including the formative trips to his mother's homestead in Tipperary and the explosion of punk which changed his life.

As well as exclusive interviews with Shane himself, author Richard Balls secured contributions from his wife and family, and people who have never spoken publicly about Shane before close associates, former girlfriends and the English teacher who first spotted his literary gift.

Nick Cave, Aidan Gillen, Cillian Murphy, Christy Moore and Sinéad O'Connor are on the rollcall of those paying tribute to the gifted songwriter and poet.

This frank and extensive biography includes many previously unseen personal photographs.

Marlon Brando

Hollywood Rebel

By Burt Kearns

Over the last eighty years, Marlon Brando has become such an object of fascination, buried under so many accreted layers of mythos and half-truth, that it is all but impossible to see the man behind the icon. As we approach the centennial of this undisputed American legend, Marlon Brando: Hollywood Rebel is a revelatory biography that tells its story the same way the man himself approached a role: from the inside. Author, journalist, and pop culture authority Burt Kearns digs deep into the unexplored aspects of Brando's career, interests, and singular personality, revealing how his roles on stage and screen, combined with his wild and restless personal life, helped to transform popular culture and society writ large. His influence was both broad and deep.

Dream Machines

Electronic Music in Britain from Doctor Who to Acid House

By Matthew Collin

Finally, the whole story of the rise of electronic music as a cultural movement from the 1940s to the 1980s. The first extensive social history of electronic music, looking at how the music evolved and mutated against the backdrop of social and political changes in society - from the beginning of the 1960s, amid the optimism for the 'space age' and a new technologically enhanced prosperity, through the struggles for social justice of the late 1960s and 1970s to the era of entrepreneurialism and the end of the post-war social consensus in the 1980s. The book explores how life as it was experienced by young people in those years affected the sounds that they made, how electronic music provided an outlet for progressive thinkers to express non-mainstream ideas about gender roles and sexuality, and how it continued to inspire subcultures that also nurtured black and gay musicians over these decades.

Londoners Making London

Transforming Neighbourhoods

By Jan Kattein

Londoners Making London tells the story of nine projects that have re-defined local community-driven urban regeneration. Countering the expectation that the development of cities is controlled only by powerful developers, this book demonstrates that transformational change is increasingly driven not by architects or planners, but by individuals who, through their conviction and determination - often against all odds - have created better places for and with their communities. In areas such as Wandsworth, Shoreditch, and Wood Green, young and old can be seen working together to create more cohesive, attractive, and prosperous pockets of their city. Colourful street parties, urban gardening, activated shop fronts, invigorated empty spaces, or re-designed neighbourhoods are some of the stories which illustrate what can be done when people work together.

Speaking Sculptures in Late Medieval Europe

A Silent Rhetoric

By Kim W. Woods

Speaking Sculptures in Late Medieval Europe explores medieval sculptors' motif of the open mouth. Too often dismissed as an illusionistic artistic device, or as an affective ploy to foster the emotional response of the viewer, 'speech mode', as it is called in this book, is here shown to have a deeper significance as an agent of engagement and persuasion. Through the evocation of sound, speaking sculptures fostered imaginatively an aural relationship between the sculpture and the viewer. Exploring a wide range of geographies, this work demonstrates that the speech mode in sculpture was not an isolated phenomenon but a familiar device in many areas of Late Gothic Europe.

The Art Institution of Tomorrow

Reinventing the Model

By Fatos Ustek

This publication is a unique manifesto for raising the standard of institutional practices across the world. It suggests that existing art institutions are not equipped to deal with the radical social, economic, and environmental change we are living through and engage with advancement in the arts, and that unless they re-focus on their core purpose and fundamentally transform their organisational structure and operational models, they will start to lose their relevance and influence. Built on an extensive study of non-profit visual-arts organisations and the creative industries at large and incorporating interviews with institutional leaders from throughout the sector, the book expresses a clear outline of change that art institutions will need to undergo to maintain their relevance for generations to come.

Clean Economy Now

Stories from the Frontlines of an American Business Revolution

By Bob Keefe and Forward by Arnold Schwarzenegger

An inspiring look at the Clean Energy Revolution Combining the instincts of a journalist and the insight of the leader of a national business organization at the forefront of climate policy, Bob Keefe provides the first in-depth look at how the most important climate action in history is reshaping our economy, the way we live, and the future of our planet. He shows how the future long predicted by pundits, policymakers and prognosticators has arrived, and how smart businesses and communities are seizing the opportunities that come with it. Keefe introduces readers to the next generation of clean energy entrepreneurs and innovators, and takes us to places like Kings Mountain, N.C. and Blue Oval City, Tenn., modern-day clean economy frontier towns where battery and electric vehicle factories are sprouting from fallow fields and reinvigorating communities previously bypassed by earlier economic shifts.

Washington, Wall Street, and the Economic Battle to Save our planet

By Bob Keefe and Forward by Tom Steyer

The battle against climate change is no longer just an environmental or social issue. As shareholders demand corporations protect assets against climate change and the economic impact of environmental disasters suck billions of dollars out of the economy, capitalism itself has become an ally. The economic impact of climate change is rattling the foundation of our economy at its very core. It's blowing up centuries-old industries from automobiles to oil and gas, creating new opportunities for investors and entrepreneurs. It's costing Americans billions of dollars each year. And most importantly, it's forcing politicians to pass long-overdue policies that will transform our businesses, our lives, and our future like never before.

Lead Like a Girl

The New Leadership Playbook for Women and Men

By Dalia Feldheim

For women AND men, this fresh look at leadership helps us all learn to connect to our more feminine leadership traits and lead like a girl! Lead Like a Girl is a holistic look at how to achieve purpose and joy at work. It is about turning the world of work into a place where empathy, intuition, passion, and resilience take their rightful place, where women can lead like women and men can tap into their more feminine leadership traits and dare to lead (more) like a girl! Dalia Feldheim was one of the marketing directors behind the 2014 global Always ad campaign "#LikeAGirl." This message touched a nerve for women and men alike becoming much more than a commercial - as it became an icon for women's empowerment.

The Unknown Fischer

By Cyrus Lakdawala

It is not really in doubt that Bobby Fischer is one of the greatest (if not the greatest) chess players of all-time. His name is one that it is recognized immediately by almost anyone with even a passing interest in chess. His numerous brilliant games are very well known and have been seen in numerous anthologies.

However, Fischer also played many games that have generally escaped public attention. These include early games before he was well known, simultaneous games, blitz games as well as many classical games that have simply fallen under the radar.

There is also a match of ten games played against Svetozar Gligoric in Sveti Stefan before his famous "re-match" with Boris Spassky. Prolific author Cyrus Lakdawala has tracked down many of these games. They provide fresh material for die hard Fischer fans and provide numerous examples of Fischer's extraordinary chess talent.

Thanks to his remarkable ability to find clear cut plans and strategies in any position, Fischer somehow managed to make chess look easy. This is a very instructive anthology.

Rag Manifesto

Making, folklore and community

By Rachael Matthews, Kathy Battista

It's time to reconsider the value of our waste. In the past these were valuable commodities you could sell on. Gathering rag and turning it into yarn was rich in the possibility of making things. This Manifesto is a unique, artist's view of the traditional art of rag rug making for this age of the Anthropocene. Projects made in the artist's studio and with a community group, highlight a reverence for our lost textiles, a response to the environmental impact of fast fashion and a proof that rag is a rich resource, wrongly classed as a taboo material.

In Rag Manifesto, Rachael Matthews gives us permission to cut up our old fabrics offering a support structure for decision making and a chart on how to make liberating decisions about destroying a garment – be it 'Worn Out Emotional', or 'Brand New and Guilty' – and how our actions can develop community as well as our own self-esteem. A modernist interpretation of rag weaving. European modernist painters, such as Ben and Winifred Nicholson, became interested in rag rug making in the 1920s. Picasso inspired freedom in creativity, using found materials and recognising that 'primitive' art was highly skilled. The art world missed a trick in not accepting these painterly rag works as true art, and many have been lost. A century later, post pandemic, the need for a community to gather and make textiles was strengthened by a shared concern about the textile waste found on the streets where they live.

Human Transit, Revised Edition

How Clearer Thinking about Public Transit Can Enrich Our Communities and Our Lives

By Jarrett Walker

"The much-anticipated update to Jarrett Walkers seminal guide to public transportation. Transportation expert Jarrett Walker believes that transit can be simple, if we focus on the underlying geometry that all transit systems share. In Human Transit, Revised Edition, he provides the basic tools and critical questions needed to make smarter decisions about designing and implementing services, refreshed with updated information and examples.

The first edition of Human Transit, published in 2011, has become a classic for professionals, advocates, and interested citizens. No other book explains the basic principles of public transit in such lively and accessible prose, all based on a respect for your right to form your own opinion. Walker’s goal is not to make you share his values, but to give you the tools to clarify and advocate for yours. Walker has updated and expanded the book to deepen its explanations. His ongoing work as a network planning consultant has provided a wealth of new examples, images, and tools. New topics include the problem with specialization; the role of flexible or “demand response” services; how to know when to redesign your network; and responding to tech-industry claims that transit will soon be obsolete. Finally, he has also added a major new section exploring the idea of access to opportunity as a core measure of transit’s success.

UFOs

A Scientist Explains What We Know (And Don't Know)

By Robert Powell

Robert Powell, a founding Board member of the Scientific Coalition for UAP Studies, has studied the UFO subject for 17 years. His work is encapsulated in UFOs: A Scientist Explains What We Know (And Don't Know) which provides a scientific rationale for the reality of non-terrestrial craft that are intelligently controlled. Powell begins his book by familiarizing the reader with the history of UFOs and he identifies the more enigmatic and interesting UFO sightings. He examines the characteristics of these sightings that argue against a prosaic explanation: extreme acceleration, electromagnetic interference, bending light, no obvious propulsion mechanisms, and a lack of interaction with the atmosphere. Powell discusses the recent events that have caused our government to change the term from UFO to UAP. Included is information never released indicating the government possesses not just two videos but five videos from 2015 of UFOs operating in the vicinity of the USS Roosevelt nuclear aircraft carrier. Powell’s later chapters in the book discuss the extraterrestrial hypothesis considering the thousands of exoplanets that have been discovered in the last twenty years. Powell challenges the reader to consider all the implications that must be considered if intelligent life discovers us first. He looks at how we as individuals and as a society react to UFOs. He documents actions taken by our military that include instances when we have fired on UFOs.

Birds of the Bible

By Peter Goodfellow

Birds of the Bible is an engaging and informative study of all the birds mentioned in the Bible, relating the references both to Bible times and to birdwatching in the Holy Land now and, where appropriate, explaining the message or symbolism behind the references to birds, for the benefit of pilgrims and birdwatchers. The Prologue sets the scene by giving a simple description of the topography and climate in Israel, so that readers - wherever they are - may get a sense of what the place is like. The following chapters cover topics such as the creation of birds; bird migration; Job's birds; birds and Jesus; and singing and nesting birds. Some species are written about in detail. Others, especially those whose identity is disputed, get less attention. Birds are mentioned repeatedly in the Bible.

The Air War in Paintings

By Suzanne Bardgett

At the height of the Second World War, Britain's skies were alight with dogfights, and its towns and cities bustling with the manufacturing of aircraft. The distant thunder of Spitfires, Hurricanes and bombers became a recurring sound, and rolling landscapes littered with airfields a familiar sight. As the air war transformed Britain's towns and countryside, it also ignited the imaginations of artists. The Air War in Paintings reveals how the artists of the 1940s responded to the unfolding air war in Britain, illuminating their private anxieties, their ambitions, and their experiences. Drawing on IWM's unrivalled collection, this richly illustrated book explores how war artists recorded and documented all aspects of the vast efforts to build Britain's air capacity at a crucial time in its history.

The Art of Naval Portraiture

By Katherine Gazzard

Portraiture has long been an important tool for creating, supporting, and challenging notions of identity. This book will explore individual and collective identities within naval portraiture and how these are shaped by ideas of gender, class, and race. Royal Museums Greenwich holds the largest collection of naval portraits in the world, including over 600 paintings of officers and sailors in the Royal Navy from the sixteenth century to the present day. These portraits have much to tell us about Britain's history as a naval power and about the individual experiences of those in service and their families. Innovative and important works of art, for centuries naval portraits have forged, reinforced, and challenged ideas of masculinity, heroism and loyalty and functioned as icons of empire, demonstrations of professionalism and personal mementos for loved ones.

Bird Brother

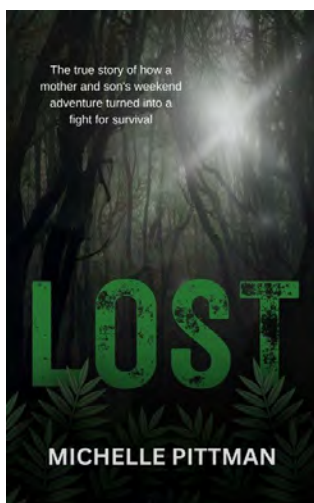

A Falconer's Journey and the Healing Power of Wildlife

By Rodney Stotts, Kate Pipkin

To escape the tough streets of Southeast Washington, D.C. in the late 1980s, young Rodney Stotts would ride the metro to the Smithsonian National Zoo. There, the bald eagles, and other birds of prey captured his imagination for the first time. In Bird Brother, Rodney shares his unlikely journey to becoming a conservationist and one of America's few Black master falconers. Rodney grew up during the crack epidemic, with guns, drugs, and the threat of incarceration an accepted part of daily life for nearly everyone he knew. To rent his own apartment, he needed a paycheck--something the money from dealing drugs didn't provide. For that, he took a position in 1992 with a new nonprofit, the Earth Conservation Corps.

Lost

By Michelle Pittman

A taste for adventure over a long weekend leads Michelle Pittman and her 9-year-old son, Dylan, to head out for a series of hikes through several of Australia beautiful national parks. Four fabulous days and a chance to explore somewhere new and experience something different. But a quick stroll in Mount Royal National Park takes a sudden turn when a split-second decision thrust them into a fight for their lives. Lost in 6920 hectares of bushland and mountainous terrain, Michelle and Dylan have only a set of car keys, a dying mobile phone, the clothes on their backs, some survival skills thanks to watching Adventurer Bear Grylls on TV and their instincts. With no food, water or supplies, every step is a gamble to survive the hostile bush, mountains, dangerous drops, and freezing nights in the hope of finding a way out or being rescued.

Gentle Annie Soames

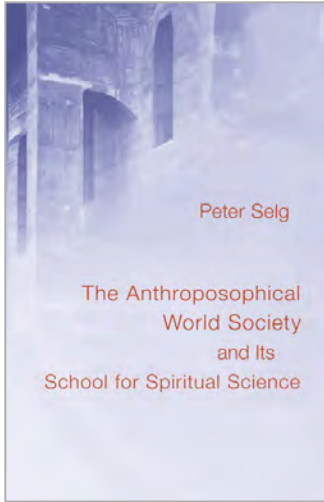

By Sara Power

Gentle Annie Soames. A 1788 First Fleet Convict Love Story. Her dreams lead to unexpected outcomes. An Australian First Fleet story. Annie Soames is shattered by the cancellation of her debut into society, so when she hears of a position as a carer for the nearby Marchioness, she grabs it. Oliver Quilpie, the recently married Marquess, discovers his arranged union is not to his taste; he is drawn to his wife's companion. Unfortunately, he is unable to keep his hands off her. However, she has not only conceived his child, but she has fallen in love with him. For revenge, Annie mimics his every move while riding but is dressed as a highwayman. This action finally leads to her arrest and transportation to a faraway land. After some years, Oliver's wife dies, and his thoughts turn to Annie. He seeks to find her, but she has vanished. He is horrified to discover she was transported to New South Wales as a convict on the Lady Penrhyn.

Basic Concepts of Modern Physics
Quanta, Particles, Relativity

By Georg Unger, Hanna Edelglass

Basic Concepts of Modern Physics is an essential introduction for all those who are interested in gaining a better understanding of modern physics.

In this unique text, Georg Unger provides clear descriptions of the conceptual bases of twentieth-century physics, including quantum mechanics, particles, and relativity theory, as well as other aspects relating to key physical concepts to phenomena.

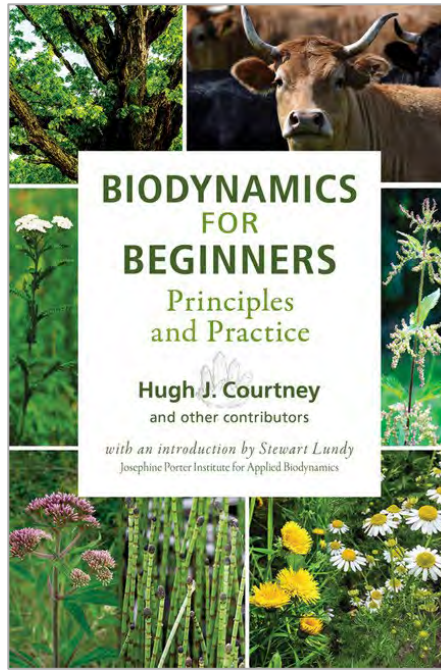

Recognizing that quantum mechanical phenomena occur at a boundary between the experienced world and a concurrent world of “subnature” that is not perceptible to the senses, Dr. Unger provides a radical, non-reductionist concept of modern physics that is open to spiritual understanding.

“We should go into a short contemplation of certain habits of thinking and ask: What expresses itself in this adherence to the nineteenth-century idea of matter? To say it radically—and thereby naturally be open to misunderstanding—it is a weakness of thinking characteristic of our times.”
— Georg Unger.

Biodynamics for Beginners
Principles and Practice

By Hugh J. Courtney, Stewart Lundy

This collection of articles—compiled primarily by Hugh Courtney from the periodical Applied Biodynamics—introduces the basics of making the essential biodynamic preparations. What is discussed in these articles is much more than just ways to prepare successfully; it also represents, for the most part, Hugh’s way of doing so with lots of practical tips for success. The articles are down to earth, literally, with very little theory, and provide the technical knowhow to make the biodynamic preparations described by Rudolf Steiner in his Agriculture Course and further developed ever since by several generations of biodynamic practitioners.

“Biodynamics is a reorientation of agriculture to its primary purpose—not commerce, but life. Anthroposophy is not a fanatical movement, nor is it an iconoclastic movement. As Steiner says, we need cow horns to make the biodynamic preparations, but we do not need to be ‘bull-headed’ about it.”
— Stewart Lundy. Biodynamics for Beginners, edited and introduced by Stewart Lundy and liberally illustrated throughout, is the perfect guidebook for anyone who is serious about becoming a successful, hands-on biodynamic farmer or gardener.

Story Sparks

Ignite Your Bedtime Storytelling!

By Mark Cunich

Key Sales Points:

- * A first of its kind interactive flip book, Story Sparks enables parents to tell improvised bedtime stories in a fun and easy way.
- * Provides over 1,000 plot combinations of Characters, Locations and Scenarios to spark creative bedtime storytelling – perfect especially after a very long day.
- * Over 22 colourful pages with easy-to-follow instructions, hints, and prompts, accompanied by a detailed artwork to inspire the imagination. Pick a character, a setting, and a scenario to set off on a truly unique adventure.
- * Studies show that bedtime storytelling creates a stronger bond and increases language skills. It helps children understand complex concepts, think symbolically and metaphorically. It also strengthens their focus and recall!

Publicity:

- * Mark has built a website full of helpful tips and resources to support parents embarking on this impromptu bedtime story telling adventure.
- * Social media buzz is already being generated with interest from libraries and bookstores in hosting events.

Author Bio:

When Mark Cunich's first child was born, he became a stay-at-home dad with aspirations of telling imaginative bedtime stories. However, he quickly realised that his newfound levels of exhaustion were restricting his creativity, making it difficult to find inspiration for his stories. He began writing Story Sparks to make bedtime storytelling easy and fun. Telling bedtime stories with Story Sparks is now a central part of the bedtime routine which Mark is now proud to share with others.

Story Sparks is first of its kind, interactive flip book to spark your creative bedtime storytelling.

With over 1,000 plot combinations, each page offers you Characters, Locations and Scenarios, accompanied by a detailed artwork to inspire your imagination.

From stories about pirates at a playground who throws a party, to a talking fire truck in outer space who gets lost, the prompts will provide plenty of fun and entertaining bedtime stories every night.

Deadly Science - Numbers in Nature - Book 9

By Australian Geographic, Corey Tutt

Key Sales Points:

- * Inspires young readers to experiment and learn about scientific principles.
- * Focus on Indigenous knowledge and wisdom.
- * Introduces students to a uniquely Australian understanding of the world around us.

Mathematical concepts are all around us — in nature, architecture, art, biology, computer science and in our everyday lives.

Did you know that natural processes, such as how bees swarm, have been used as a model for computer algorithms, or that boomerangs work using similar aerodynamic concepts as aircraft?

Explore how number patterns, symmetry, algebra, geometry, and other maths concepts have been applied by First Australians for millennia.

Deadly Science - Light and Colour - Book 10

By Australian Geographic, Corey Tutt

Key Sales Points:

- * Inspires young readers to experiment and learn about scientific principles.
- * Focus on Indigenous knowledge and wisdom.
- * Introduces students to a uniquely Australian understanding of the world around us.

Light from our Sun and other sources is all around, bringing colour, heat, and energy.

Over time, humans have harnessed light to create fire, fluorescent light, and even scientific equipment like lasers. But light and colour are tricky.

Too much or too little light changes our body chemistry, when it bends it can fool our eyes, and it can even act like a wave or a particle!

Explore what First Australians and scientists have learned about the incredible properties of light and colour.
