MEDICAL REFERENCE TITLES

PSYCHOLOGY DSM-5 Overview

Essentials of highly relevant aspects of the updated Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Health Disorders -- Fifth Edition (DSM) handbook used by health care professionals as a guide to diagnosing mental disorders.

NEURODEVELOPMENTAL DISORDERS

Intellectual Disability
Characterized by deficits in intellectual and/or social functioning that are significantly below average for the individual's chronological age, as measured by standardized intelligence and/or adaptive functioning tests. The deficits must be present before the age of 18 and must be associated with functional impairments in social and academic settings.

Autism Spectrum Disorder
Characterized by persistent deficits in social communication and social interaction across multiple contexts, and restricted, repetitive patterns of behavior, interests, or activities. The symptoms must be present before the age of 3 and must be associated with functional impairments in social and academic settings.

Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder
Characterized by a persistent pattern of inattention and/or hyperactivity-impulsivity that interferes with functioning or development. The symptoms must be present before the age of 12 and must be associated with functional impairments in social and academic settings.

SCHIZOPHRENIA SPECTRUM AND OTHER PSYCHOTIC DISORDERS

Delusional Disorder
Characterized by one or more delusions that are not attributable to a medical condition or substance use. The delusions must be present for at least 1 month and must be associated with functional impairments in social and academic settings.

Bipolar and Related Disorders

Bipolar I Disorder
Characterized by at least one manic episode. The manic episode is defined by an abnormally elevated, expansive, or irritable mood and inflated self-esteem or grandiosity, lasting at least 1 week and requiring hospitalization or causing significant impairment in social and academic settings.

Major Depressive Disorder
Characterized by at least five of the following symptoms: depressed mood, loss of interest or pleasure, weight change, sleep disturbance, fatigue, feelings of worthlessness or guilt, thoughts of death or suicide, and decreased ability to think, concentrate, or make decisions. The symptoms must be present for at least 2 weeks and must be associated with functional impairments in social and academic settings.
