Ups and Downs

A book for kids about big feelings

By Karen Young, Norvile Dovidonyte

NEW

All feelings are important - the magical, the messy, and the in-between. Sometimes though, big feelings can have us behaving in ways that aren't so, let's say... shiny. This happens to all of us. The more young people understand how and why, the more they can build the capacity to feel their feelings and manage them in positive ways. 'Ups and Downs' draws on Polyvagal Theory, a widely accepted neuroscientific theory, to support young people to understand why they feel and do as they do, and how to do differently when they need to. Driving brains and bodies isn't easy! It takes time, experience, and the right information, so let's give them that.

Author Bio:

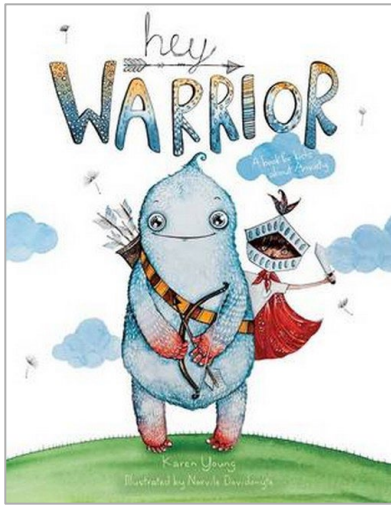

Karen began her career as a psychologist and now consults with parents, schools, government bodies, and child and adolescent focused organisations both at home in Australia and overseas. She is the founder of Hey Sigmund at www.heysigmund.com, an internationally popular online resource that provides contemporary, research-driven information on anxiety, parenting, and the neurodevelopment of children.

She has written five books, including the bestselling 'Hey Warrior'. The books have been translated into multiple languages and are used extensively in homes, schools, and therapeutic settings throughout the world.

Illustrator Bio

Nora graduated from art school in Lithuania and completed a bachelor's degree in fine photography at the Vilnius Design College. Ever since she can remember, she has been fascinated by children's storybooks, especially creative illustrations. She creates whimsical characters with big round eyes and unique personalities. For her, watercolour is the ideal medium fulfilling her sense of creative satisfaction. Nora creates intricate patterns and details with an ink pen working to expose her own dreamlike version of reality. You can find her works at www.norvile.com.

Eating Disorders Don't Discriminate

Stories of Illness, Hope and Recovery from Diverse Voices

By Dr Chukwuemeka Nwuba, Bailey Spinn, Nigel Owens, Dianne Buswell, Smriti Mundhra

Eating disorders know no boundaries. They don't discriminate. Every story of living with an eating disorder is unique. 'Eating Disorders Don't Discriminate' brings together thirty-one of them, each tackling the stereotypes and misconceptions about what eating disorders look like and who they impact. Athletes, activists, directors, models, health professionals, and more share their experiences of eating disorders, including binge eating disorder, bulimia nervosa, anorexia nervosa, ARFID and OSFED, and highlight the complexities of how race, gender, culture and social media can influence our experiences of body and food. Compiled by Dr Chuks Nwuba, who has cared for some of the UK's most unwell eating disorder patients, and TikToker and eating disorder advocate Bailey Spinn, this stirring anthology is one of hope and encouragement for anyone who feels misunderstood and underrepresented. With writing from: Rachael Alder-Byrne - Molly Bartrip - Sophie Baverstock - Hana Brannigan - Cynthia Bulik - Dianne Buswell - Lee Chambers - Dave Chawner - Sam Clark-Stone - Megan Jayne Crabbe - James Downs - Shannon Dymond - Emme - Becky Excell - Lindsey Holland - Bobby Kasmire - Sam Layton - Amalie Lee - Raffela Mancuso - Ro Mitchell - Bayadir Mohamed-Osman - Smriti Mundhra - George Mycock - Marilyn Okoro - Nigel Owens.

The Autistic Teen's Avoidant Eating Workbook

By Elizabeth Shea, Tim Stringer

What should I be aware of when trying new foods? Am I ready to change my eating patterns? How can I eat with other people?

Food can come with all sorts of challenges - sensory issues, social pressure, loss of control - and so making choices about what foods to eat, and coping with mealtimes can be stressful - especially when other people are involved.

If you are neurodivergent and looking to change your relationship with food, this interactive, accessible guide is the perfect companion. You might stick to the same safe foods all the time, be attached to specific mealtime rituals, or struggle to know whether you are hungry or full.

This guide will help you recognise the signs of avoidant eating, cope with food related anxieties and manage sensory overload, as well as the particular social stresses of communal eating.

With top tips, a progress tracker, quizzes and worksheets, this is an engaging and informative resource for teens and parents alike.

Meltdown!

By David Griswold, Merle Goll

This humorous picture book uses robots to help kids explore big emotions. Did you know robots never stay up past their bedtime? They power down right at seven o'clock. And when robots are upset, they never hit. They use their programming language: BLEEP BLOOP! But even robots with all the latest updates will occasionally malfunction. Meltdowns happen. And while they are no fun, they don't last forever.

Meltdown! normalizes big emotions and explores some ways to cope with even the biggest mega robot meltdowns. With colourful illustrations full of imaginative details, this pun-tastic picture book is fun to read for robo-kids and grown-up robots alike.

Green-Eyed Goblin

What to do about jealousy: for all children including those on the Autism Spectrum

K.I. Al-Ghani

Illustrations by
Haitham Al-Ghani

By Kay Al-Ghani, Haitham Al-Ghani

Deep inside everyone, a little goblin lies sleeping. When it wakes up, its eyes turn green, its nose grows, and it starts to breathe a smelly green mist.

This is the story of the waking of a Green-Eyed Goblin. When Theo sees his sister getting lots of attention for her birthday, his sleeping goblin wakes and he can't seem to stop himself from saying all the horrid things the nasty goblins green mist is making him think. Will Theo learn how to send his Green-Eyed Goblin back to sleep in time for the party?

This fun, illustrated storybook will help children aged 5-13 to understand and cope with jealousy and how it can sometimes make us feel not good enough. A helpful introduction for parents and carers explains jealousy in children, and a section at the back of the book provides strategies for overcoming it.

All Birds Have Anxiety

By Kathy Hoopmann

Life as a bird can be stressful! From worrying about airplanes, windows, and getting enough worms to eat, it is clear that birds can be anxious beings. Through a light-touch, quizzical depiction of bird behaviour, All Birds Have Anxiety uses colourful images and astute explanations to explore with gentle humour what it means to live with anxiety day-to-day, and how to begin to deal with it. With colourful photographs express the complex and difficult ideas related to anxiety disorder in an easy-to-understand way. This simple yet profound book validates the deeper everyday experiences of anxiety, provides an empathic understanding of the many symptoms associated with anxiety, and offers compassionate suggestions for change. The combination of understanding and gentle humour make this the ideal introduction to anxiety disorder.

Why Do I Have To?

A Book for Children Who Find Themselves Frustrated by Everyday Rules

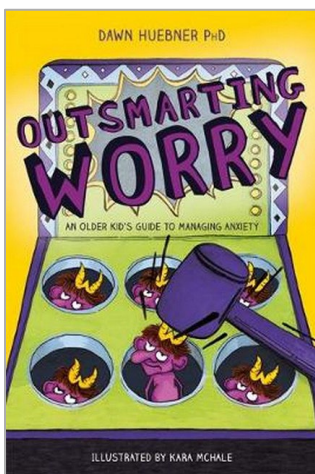

By Luisa Montaini-Klov Dahl, Laurie Leventhal-Belfer

Why do I have to go to school before the show that I am watching is over? Why do I have to wear shoes and a jacket when I go outside? Rules like these can be really frustrating - but they don't have to be! Why do I have to? looks at a set of everyday situations that provide challenges for children at home, with their friends, and at school. Laurie Leventhal-Belfer empathises with children's wish to do things their way, explains clearly why their way does not work, and provides a list of practical suggestions for how to cope with these challenges and avoid feelings of frustration.

Outsmarting Worry

An Older Kid's Guide to Managing Anxiety

By Dawn Huebner, Kara McHale

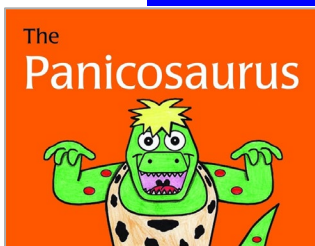

Worry has a way of growing, shifting from not-a-big-deal to a VERY BIG DEAL in the blink of an eye. Children often find it hard to fight back against Worry, but not anymore. Outsmarting Worry teaches 9-13 year olds and the adults who care about them a specific set of skills that makes it easier to face - and overcome - worries and fears. Smart, practical, proven techniques are presented in language immediately accessible to children with an emphasis on shifting from knowing to doing, from worried to happy and free.

Disappointment Dragon

Learning to cope with disappointment (for all children and dragon tamers including those with Aspergers syndrome)

By Haitham Al-Ghani, Kay Al-Ghani

When things don't go our way, the Disappointment Dragon can come to visit and take us down to his home in the Valley of Despair. The Disappointment Dragon sometimes comes to see us all and, if we let him, he can make us feel sad or angry. He visits Bobby when he is not picked for the school football team, he also finds Lucinda when she has to miss an exciting school trip because she has the Chicken Pox. He even tries to take the whole of Class Three down to the Valley of Despair when their favourite teacher moves away. Will the Dragon of Hope be able to chase away the Disappointment Dragon and help them see things more positively? The fun characters in this charming, fully illustrated storybook will help children to cope with, and discuss openly, their feelings of disappointment.

Why?

A Story for Kids Who Have Lost a Parent to Suicide

By Melissa Allen Heath, Frances Ives

A picture book geared to help parents and counsellors communicate with young children about a parent's suicide. Oliver's daddy loved him-a whole bunch, forever and for always. One day Oliver's daddy died by suicide. Why? Oliver's mommy hugs him tight, and she tells him why. And she reassures Oliver that his daddy loved him-and that will never change.

In developmentally appropriate language and evocative illustrations, this picture book helps open communication about why a parent completes suicide. A reader's note offers more information about supporting children who have lost a parent to suicide.

My Grief Handbook

Why Grief Hurts and How to Cope

By Beck Ferrari, David Trickey, Olivia Clark-Tate, Roberta Ravasio

Key Sales Points:

* A book for bereaved young people to make sense of their grief, why they feel the way they do, and how they can cope.

Grief can be complicated and painful. Our memories, relationships, good times and worries are unique, and these all affect how we experience a loss. No two people will experience grief in the same way because all of our relationships are specific to us. But there are frameworks for understanding our reactions when someone dies. Lots of people have found it helpful to understand these frameworks, as knowing what's going on with grief can help us find ways to cope with the loss, let go of some of the pain, and find ways to still have a good future.

Based on years of research, this book includes some first-hand experiences from people who have been through grief, to show how the ideas could work in real life. However, this is not another person's story. It is a guide to understanding your own. By getting to know how we are processing grief, we can start getting on with it - working alongside it and moving forward.

The Memory Box
A Book about Grief

By Joanna Rowland, Thea Baker

From the perspective of a young child, Joanna Rowland artfully describes what it is like to remember and grieve a loved one who has died.

The child in the story creates a memory box to keep mementos and written memories of the loved one, to help in the grieving process.

Heartfelt and comforting, The Memory Box will help children and adults talk about this very difficult topic together. The unique point of view allows the reader to imagine the loss of any they have loved - a friend, family member, or even a pet.

A parent guide in the back includes information on helping children manage the complex and difficult emotions they feel when they lose someone they love, as well as suggestions on how to create their own memory box.

Harper Becomes a Big Sister

By Seamus Kirst, Karen Bunting

Harper discovers that the addition of a new baby to the family does not mean there is less love to go around, but instead there is more to share. When Dad and Daddy adopt a new baby, Harper is excited to be a big sister for the first time.

She picks out a stuffed animal just for her baby brother and practices holding a doll in case Dad and Daddy's arms get tired. She can't wait for the new baby to join all the family's favourite activities! But when the new baby arrives, Dad and Daddy don't have as much time or energy as they used to. Everything is about the new baby!

Daddy is too tired from being up all night with him to play hide and seek with Harper. Dad is too busy taking care of the baby to go to the park. Even Taco Tuesday is ruined!

Once Upon My Dads' Divorce

By Seamus Kirst, Noemie Gionet Landry

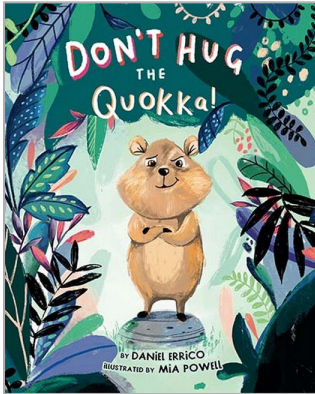

Helps children understand the divorce of same-sex parents and how a child's living situation may change. Once upon a time, Grayson's life was like a fairy tale. He lived in a big brick house with Papa and Daddy. They had chocolate chip pancakes on Saturdays and read bedtime stories together every night. But when Grayson's dads get a divorce, everything changes. First, Papa moves into an apartment. Then, Daddy moves into a smaller house. Now it's one week with Papa, then one week with Daddy. Will Grayson ever feel like himself again? Once Upon My Dads' Divorce sensitively portrays the challenges of moving from one house with both parents to two houses, and offers reassurance on many questions and feelings readers may have after their parents' divorce.

Don't Hug the Quokka!

By Daniel Errico, Mia Powell

That quokka may be cute, but does it want a hug? The quokka says "No!" In Don't Hug The Quokka!, young readers get a light-hearted and friendly introduction to the concept of consent, learning that even the most adorable creatures might not want a hug—unless they say so! Consent is a really important topic for parents to introduce to young children, but it can be tricky to do so in a way that's clear without being frightening. This book is funny and cute, but has a clear message that you have to ask before touching someone else—it's a good place to start for young kids.

Maybe Days

A Book for Children in Foster Care

By Jennifer Wilgocki, Marcia Wright

For many children in foster care, the answer to many questions is often "maybe". "Maybe Days" is a straightforward look at the issues of foster care, the questions that children ask, and the feelings that they confront. A primer for children going into foster care, the book also explains in children's terms the responsibilities of everyone involved - parents, social workers, lawyers and judges. As for the children themselves, their job is to be a kid - and there's no maybe about that.

The Simple Guide to Emotional Neglect What It Is and How to Help

By Betsy de Thierry, Emma Reeves, Dr. Karen Treisman

NEW

Key Sales Points:

- * A simple guide to understanding emotional neglect - what it is, how it affects people, and what can be done to help support recovery.
- * Emotional abuse and neglect is a theme that affects a large proportion of the adult population (36%, compared with physical abuse 18%, sexual abuse 8-18% and physical neglect 16% as self-reported from the adult population).
- * Part of the popular Simple Guides series, all authored by Betsy de Thierry.
- * Betsy de Thierry is a psychotherapist and renowned expert on child trauma. She is a popular and prolific trainer and speaker.

What is emotional neglect? How does it affect children and the adults they become? What can we do to help?

In The Simple Guide to Emotional Neglect, Betsy de Thierry provides clarity and guidance on the complex subject of emotional neglect, including how it impacts emotional connection and behaviour in the children who experience it.

Author Bio:

Betsy de Thierry (Author) Betsy de Thierry is a mum of four brilliant sons, a practising psychotherapist, and a qualified primary school teacher. With over 20 years of experience and knowledge within the field, she is a trainer in trauma recovery and the founder of the Trauma Recovery Centre, a charity specialising in recovery from complex trauma. She is also the CEO of BdT Ltd (www.betsytraininguk.co.uk) Trauma Training, Consultancy and Leadership, which supports professionals who work with traumatised children and families in the UK.

Betsy de Thierry has spent years working with children and adults impacted by emotional neglect from all walks of life and combines her experience with the latest research evidence to provide you with a concise overview of what emotional neglect looks like, and the issues it can create, including its impact on the developing brain, the development of trauma-based behaviours and challenges to forming emotional connections.

The practical advice in this book guides parents, carers, and professionals involved in child welfare on how to provide informed and empathic support.

Deadly Science - Numbers In Nature - Book 9By Australian Geographic, Corey TuttCOMING SOON*Key Sales Points:

- * Inspires young readers to experiment and learn about scientific principles.
- * Focused on Indigenous knowledge and wisdom.
- * Introduces students to a uniquely Australian understanding of the world around us.

Mathematical concepts are all around us — in nature, architecture, art, biology, computer science and in our everyday lives. Did you know that natural processes, such as how bees swarm, have been used as a model for computer algorithms, or that boomerangs work using similar aerodynamic concepts as aircraft? Explore how number patterns, symmetry, algebra, geometry, and other maths concepts have been applied by First Australians for millennia.

- * Inspires young readers to experiment and learn about scientific principles.
- * Focused on Indigenous knowledge and wisdom.
- * Introduces students to a uniquely Australian understanding of the world around us.

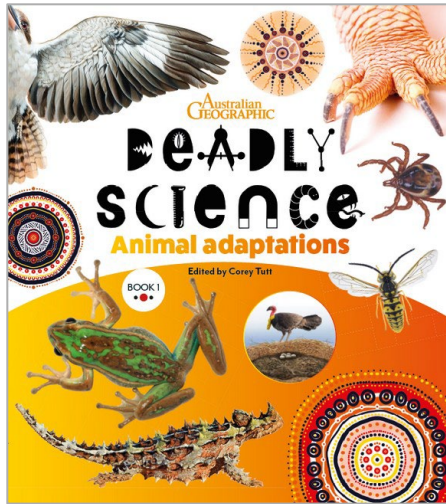

Light from our Sun and other sources is all around, bringing colour, heat and energy. Over time, humans have harnessed light to create fire, fluorescent light and even scientific equipment like lasers. But light and colour are tricky. Too much or too little light changes our body chemistry, when it bends it can fool our eyes, and it can even act like a wave or a particle! Explore what First Australians and scientists have learned about the incredible properties of light and colour.

Coding with the micro:bit

Create Cool Programming Projects

The QuestKids® children's series

By Dan Aldred

NEW

Key Sales Points:

* Another new title in the QuestKids® children's series that was launched by In Easy Steps in 2018, designed to make learning fun for children. Coding with BBC micro:bit teaches children how to use the BBC micro:bit, and then guides them through 10 exciting projects, including a temperature sensor, simple interactive games, and an alarm system.

* Coding for children has become a popular area in computing books.

* The BBC micro:bit is a pocket-sized computer that shows how software and hardware work together. It has an LED light display, buttons, sensors, and many input/output features that, when programmed, let it interact with you and your world. There are two versions, and the latest version with sound adds a built-in microphone and speaker, as well as an extra touch input button and a power button.

* The QuestKids® series is developed and designed by the In Easy Steps team.

Author Bio

Dan Aldred is a Computer Science teacher with over 20 years working in secondary education. He currently works for Cambridge Assessment International Education creating content for Computer Science and Furtehr Maths. He is a freelance resource writer and hacker. He has championed the use of the computer and technology as a tool for learning and creativity, and is a Raspberry Pi certified educator. Dan led the winning team of students for the first Astro Pi competition, whose code is now orbiting Earth around the ISS. Dan currently resides in the UK. Dan runs a website TeCoEd full of Raspberry Pi hacks and projects and also a YouTube channel.

First, Coding with BBC micro:bit introduces children to the hardware and software features of the micro:bit, including the built-in microphone, speaker, and touch sensor added in micro:bit version 2. They will learn new skills such as how to code a micro:bit to play music, send messages, display pictures, and detect light. Once they have mastered these skills, the book guides them through 10 exciting projects.

“Try This” sections suggest other ways for children to try out their new knowledge to inspire them to build their own projects with the micro:bit. Each project has been designed to work with both versions of the micro:bit.
